T. V. Williams Admits Merit Violations, Vows To Comply in 45 Days

RALPH McGILL

While the Clock Ticks—

It is obvious that ahead of the Deep South states is a chaotic educational period in which some schools will be closed and so-called private schools will attempt to operate.

That a certain amount of chaos will prevail and that injunctions and suits will be commonplace is inevitable.

The Arkansas plan largely follows that of Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina. It allows the state government to withdraw all state funds and forbid the use of local. Georgia's law goes further than others and makes it a felony to attempt to operate a school with locally raised funds.

In general, these states plan to close the buildings and officially declare them no longer available for public schools. They then will proceed to lease the buildings to private operators. The states also have stand-by laws authorizing the governor to pay state funds to children with the provision that the money be used for "education." While no state seems to have spelled this out, the present idea is that in general it would be the amount spent by the state on a per-pupil basis.

Some very good lawyers say that this is so plainly a deliberate evasion of the court's constitutional interpretation as to be illegal on its face. Others say that if the state provides money and leases the buildings it is then in the school business and would be engaged unconstitutionally. But, of course, there are many lawyers, especially those who most bitterly assail the court, who argue such evasions are legal.

None May Say

Until final judgment none may say which is right.

Meanwhile, it is difficult for a newspaper, television or radio commentator to write or speak in this field except in terms extreme or in weakling vagaries. So emotionally committed are most persons in the Deep South that those who do not agree are damned as enemies and worse.

But the fact remains that even in so torrid a climate there is a place for the moderate or the person who believes in due process of law.

To take such a stand is not at all to be "for" or "against" segregation. One's personal feelings, however strong, are not relevant to the over-all duty. Thousands of such persons have held to this position. Many of them are strongly against the court decision. They strongly dislike the idea of desegregation. They may be Christians who cannot reconcile discrimination. They may be persons who say, "I hate the court decision. I wish it had never been made. But I am an American and I will put my country's institutions above my personal likes and dislikes."

To say that such persons are "for" integration is not the truth. It is a distortion of the facts. How many are there? In the Virginia election some 33 per cent of the vote went against the winner in an all-out campaign based on the issue. In Arkansas Gov. Faubus received about 67 per cent of the vote and of the 33 per cent, an estimated 12 per cent was Negro. One may be sure that few of these were "for" school desegregation. They responded to what to them seemed a higher duty.

No Accomplishment

Sulphuric denunciations of the court and "Ike" accomplish nothing at all.

The person whose love for his state and region includes its future, and who knows even a little history, is aware that at least 41 of the states have met, or are seeking to meet the issue with due processes of law. In time their representatives in the Congress will act on the issue. Those who offer merely defiance owe a duty to their people to let them know what the price will be.

Hence, in the Deep South states which plan to close their schools as district by district they become subject to court order, there ought to be alternatives for education if the ill-defined private plan is not constitutional. Voluntary agreements, local school board autonomy, or other statewide plans seem to be indicated. To close the schools is certainly legal. But the responsibility of leadership would seem to indicate something other than waiting for chaos to descend.

To believe this is not to be "for" or "against" the court but is, without question, strongly "for" one's state, region and country.

Taipei Believes Red Barrages Herald Invasion

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A saturating storm of Red artillery shells hit the little Tan islets Friday. The sustained, week-long cannonading was said to have convinced most military men here that Red China will attempt an invasion of Nationalist offshore islands soon.

"Ninety per cent of the Americans are now 90 per cent certain the Communists will try to capture at least outpost islands and perhaps try Quemoy itself," said one well-placed American. He added that many believe the invasion may come next week.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said the little island patches of Tatan and Ehrtan—known as the Tan islands — were blasted with 7,120 high explosive shells in one hour.

HEAVY CONCENTRATION

This amounted to more than 50 shells for each of Tatan's 96 acres and Ehrtan's 40 acres. It was many times the concentration of any artillery bombardment, not only of the four-year shadow war along Formosa Strait but of the Communist-Nationalist war on the mainland.

The Tans, only 2½ miles south of the Red port of Amoy, are lightly held but have been valuable Nationalist outposts. With these islets, together with Quemoy and Little Quemoy, the Nationalists have made Amoy a dead seaport.

The danger that the Communists might attempt a relatively cheap landing on the Tans for a propaganda victory was first suggested last Sunday when Red artillery began firing on them. On Wednesday, Nationalists said, the Communists fired 4,000 rounds at the Tans.

ULTIMATUM

Strongly defended Quemoy, itself threatened Wednesday and Thursday with a surrender-or-die ultimatum from the Red Chinese command in Fukien province, was given relatively light treatment as the nearby Tans took their terrible pounding.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said Quemoy was hit by more than 2,000 shells in four barrages.

Reds Agree To Date of Atom Talks

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

LONDON—Premier Khrushchev said Friday night the Soviet Union was willing to begin talks with the United States and Britain on Oct. 31 on suspension of nuclear weapons tests. He said the tests should be banned forever.

The end of October was suggested for such talks by the United States and Britain a week ago when they announced a year's suspension of tests. The Western suspension, it was announced, would be conditional on Russia not resuming tests and her willingness to negotiate a three-power suspension agreement under effective international control.

The British announcement then suggested that the talks begin in New York. Khrushchev said he regarded Geneva as the most suitable place for the meeting.

PRAVDA TOLD

His statement was made to Communist newspaper Pravda and was broadcast by Tass, the Soviet press agency.

The Russian leader wove into his acceptance of the Western invitation some curt charges of Western bad faith.

"The talks," Khrushchev said, "must be aimed at the conclusion of an agreement for the banning forever of all tests of nuclear weapons by all countries."

That is further than the U.S. and British proposals went for they did not include France, which is expected soon to be a nuclear power.

VICIOUS CIRCLE

The Russian premier's statement, broadcast from Moscow in the English language, continued:

"The vicious circle created by the opponents of a universal ending of tests has closed again. Now that it has become clear to all that control is quite feasible they are saying once again in Washington and London that the problem of ending nuclear tests can be solved only in connection with the solution of other disarmament problems."

The West has always linked the issue of nuclear disarmament with conventional weapons disarmament and reduction of armed forces.

Adlai Planning Campaign Role

ST. JEAN - CAP - FERRAT, France (AP) — Adlai Stevenson made clear Friday that he plans an active part in this fall's congressional elections.

"I am taking a real vacation before the hard election campaign which lies ahead," he said by telephone from the Riviera villa of Lady Kenmare where he is a guest.

Stevenson said he would be back in the United States Sept. 7.

State's Take In Taxes Goes Up Sharply

Georgia took in $638,438.85 more in taxes in August of 1958 than it did the year before, State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams reported Friday.

The August total this year was $20,817,674.85.

Williams said the increase in motor fuel tax and sales tax collections indicated an upturn in business.

But most of the increases came from improved collection methods, he stated.

Motor fuel tax collections were up $67,000 this year from last August, and sales tax receipts up $444,000. Income tax was down $66,000, wine tax down $10,000, liquor tax up $16,000 and malt beverage tax up $250,000.

During the first two months of the current fiscal year, revenue collections have been almost $1.5 million more than for a similar period in the preceding year.

Thermometer Inching to 90 For Weekend

Fair and warm weather with little change in temperature is forecast for Atlanta and north Georgia over the weekend.

The weatherman predicts extremes of 67 and 89 Saturday and 68 and 90 Sunday. Slightly cooler temperatures are expected for the north Georgia mountains.

Atlanta's extremes Friday were 65 and 87.

10 Atom Tests Slated In Nevada Before Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government announced Friday it plans 10 low-powered atomic blasts in Nevada before the proposed one-year suspension of nuclear weapons tests beginning Oct. 31.

An announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission said the 10 shots at the Nevada test ground will complete the 1958 testing program which has been in progress at the Eniwetok and Johnston Island proving grounds in the Pacific.

BELLS RING AT SPRING STREET SCHOOL

160,000 Laugh, Pout As School Bells Ring

Summertime swerved to an abrupt halt Friday for thousands of youngsters who laid aside carefree vacation pleasures and jobs and took up pencils and notebooks.

The school bell's call in the Atlanta city system and the Fulton and DeKalb county systems was answered with great reluctance by some.

But some went back exuberantly. An Atlanta kindergarten pupil pouted at her mother on the bus trip home from the short opening day session because she could not stay at school all day.

Happy squeals filled the halls as students learned they had been assigned to their favorite teachers—and a few long faces were in evidence over the prospect of being under the "iron hand rule" of certain teachers.

The usual back-to-school trek was made by an estimated 160,000 youngsters in the Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb systems.

The three school systems opened a total of 22 new schools to accommodate the ever-increasing flow of students. DeKalb County youngsters poured into 16 new schools, Atlanta pupils into four and Fulton children into two.

Miss Ira Jarrell, Atlanta school superintendent, said an exact count of students enrolled in the city's 130 elementary and high schools could not be made before next week.

"We're anticipating a total enrollment of more than 95,000 by the end of next week, however," Miss Jarrell added.

The first day of school in the Atlanta system "went off as scheduled with no unusual difficulties being encountered," Miss Jarrell added.

"Summer - long planning by school officials "paid off in a very smooth opening-day operation," she said. "Our teachers and principals have been on the job for the past two weks preparing for the new term."

Soviets Get Space Dogs Back Alive

LONDON (UPI) — Moscow Radio said Friday night the Soviet Union has rocketed two dogs to a height of 280 miles and brought them back alive.

The broadcast said this was twice the height of previous such experiments. The dog that went up in Sputnik II died.

(Western scientists at the International Astronautical Congress in Amsterdam this week said they had evidence the Russians were working on getting a man into space as a top priority project.)

Moscow Radio said the dogs were sent up in a one-stage rocket Wednesday and landed "in a precisely allocated sector."

It said the rocket was launched somewhere in the Soviet Union in accordance with the International Geophysical Year program.

Moscow Radio said the total weight of the scientific apparatus sent up Wednesday, including the dogs and their cabin, was 6,690 kilograms (about 3,618 pounds.)

"The dogs survived the return from a height of 450 kilometers (about 280 miles) and are in good shape," Moscow Radio said.

"Until now, the maximum height from which test animals had been successfully recovered was 212 kilometers (about 132 miles.)

The dogs' cabin was equipped with an air purifying system, instruments for the registration of the animals' biological functions, and a camera for recording their behavior in flight, it said.

Moscow Radio said the dogs were named Belyanka (white) and Pestraya (brindle), that both were female and weighed about 17 and a half pounds apiece.

It said the flight was preceded by several months training and they grew so used to the cabin they would enter it on their own initiative.

AFTER JURY TALK

T. V. Williams, Wyman Harris

Gives Pledge To Jury in About-Face

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams Sr., who Thursday denied violating State Merit System laws, "admitted" to violations Friday before the Fulton County grand jury.

Williams "made a solemn promise" to the jury that he will comply with merit regulations within 45 days. The jury had served notice it was considering a 24-count indictment against Williams.

Text of special presentment, Page 5. Jury calls for one-mill tax increase for urban renewal, Page 6; recommends expanded crime prevention commission, Page 16.

The jury reported the transaction in a special presentment which it returned late Friday after Williams spent about an hour before the body.

ADJUST SALARIES

"Included in this understanding, among other things, was a promise to discharge personnel who have not passed the Merit System examination, or who are otherwise unqualified under the regulations," the jury explained.

The understanding also included action, the jury said, to "reduce salaries of persons receiving compensation in excess of the compensation plan of the Merit System and to elevate salaries of those" being paid below scale.

"The commissioner further agreed to make a full report to the September-October grand jury at any time after 45 days from today," the presentment said.

JUNE REPORT

The agreement could affect hundreds of employes. The Merit System reported in June there are 250 revenue employes whose appointments are not in order and

Conviction Of Ingram Is Upheld

By GENE BRITTON

The 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld conviction of Horace Ingram and seven others, including one woman, on charges of conspiring in a north Georgia lottery racket.

Ingram, alleged gambling ring boss, and the others were found guilty in U.S. district court here after a 19-day trial last October.

FILED APPEAL

Defense attorneys filed an appeal with the higher court in New Orleans after the trial judge, Boyd Sloan, turned down a bid to throw out the jury's verdict.

Attorney John Tyler, who defended Ingram and several of the other 31 defendants who were originally indicted, said he doubts "that this will close the matter."

"I anticipate that we will file a motion for a rehearing down there," he said.

ONE WOMAN

The defendants whose appeal was denied included one woman, Mrs. Mary Parks Law. Others were Frank Christian, L. E. (Slick) Smith, Rufus Jenkins, Richard Lee Turner, Robert Lee Lewis Sr., John Hill Jr. and Ingram.

Ingram and Jenkins, a Negro whom the government contended was a chief lieutenant in Ingram's operations, were both convicted on three counts, one for conspiracy and two substantive counts. Each was sentenced to a total of six years in prison.

The others were convicted on the conspiracy count only and received sentences ranging from probation to three years in prison.

In upholding the conviction, the Court of Appeals said:

"It is clear enough that there

Virginia, Arkansas Near Climax Of School Segregation Battles

By The Associated Press

Virginia has joined Arkansas in the front lines of the South's struggle against public school integration by federal court order.

A showdown on whether Dixie's tradition of racial separation will be upended now, later or not at all is in the making in both states. It should come by mid-September at the latest.

The most potent weapon brandished by the segregationists is a threat to close the schools to ward off race mixing.

A Virginia test on this point moved a step nearer Friday at Norfolk. The school board there bowed to an 18-month-old U. S. court order and assigned 17 Negroes to white schools for the session starting Sept. 8.

A federal judge earlier had designated five Negro pupils for enrollment Sept. 4 in white schools at Arlington, Va., a Washington suburb.

The pointed significance in both actions is that when Negroes are enrolled in a white school in Virginia the school automatically is closed by state law.

The next step might well be a new round of federal litigation over this law, which has been enacted in similar form by several states. More of the delay for which Southern segregationists are battling could follow.

The Norfolk School Board at the same time asked U.S. Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman to delay until September of next year the enrollment of the Negro pupils. It said time is needed to prepare citizens and officials for "the profound changes."

Hoffman made no immediate response. He indicated he would refuse the request unless the U. S. Supreme Court at its extraordinary session Sept. 11 permits a 2½ year delay at the Little Rock, Ark., Central High.

A lull, which could be the calm before another storm, prevailed at Little Rock where Central High was integrated last year under the watchful eyes of soldiers.

Members of the Legislature have gone home after arming Gov. Orval E. Faubus with a package of anti-integration bills, one of which would permit him also to close a forcibly integrated school.

Another would again postpone the opening of Central High, this time until Sept. 15—four days after the Supreme Court meeting. The

950 Guards, Troopers Give Death Red Light

More than 450 state patrolmen and 500 National Guardsmen moved out in full force over the state Friday afternoon, launching an assault on Georgia Labor Day fatalities.

Fourteen persons are likely to die on Georgia highways between 6 p.m. Friday and Monday midnight, traffic experts say.

The program to cut down traffic fatalities, called "Operation Deathless", officially got under way at 6 p.m. Friday.

Adj. Gen. Charles Camp said 16 L-19 observer planes and two helicopters were also thrown into battle to save lives on Georgia roads.

Gov. Griffin said the high death prediction warranted calling the guardsmen for patrol for the first time. They will work with approximately 450 state patrolmen and GBI agents.

Griffin said 33 guard units will be stationed on major highways at the state line to hand out leaflets to oncoming motorists urging them to drive safely.

The leaflets, in the form of a letter from the governor, carry a plea to observe safe driving practices.

Atom Sub Skate To Visit France

Ike Signs Increase In Social Security

4 of 42 Approved Bills Allot 10 Billion at Home, Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vacation-bound, President Eisenhower signed 42 more bills Friday, including one to boost Social Security benefits and taxes.

Four of the bills receiving Eisenhower's approval appropriate a total of more than 10 billion dollars for various government undertakings at home and abroad.

The President took advantage of a delay in his scheduled departure by air for Newport, R.I., to act on the measures. He also got in a round of golf and a couple of conferences while waiting for the hurricane-ruffled weather off new England to clear.

The money bills provide $3,298,092,500 for foreign military and economic aid; $6.090,156,900 for federal independent offices; $1,354,000,000 for military construction at continental and foreign posts; and $328,000,000 for U.S. help to West Europe in developing an atomic power pool.

ACREAGE CUTBACKS

Other measures approved included one permitting reductions in some farm price supports and preventing scheduled acreage cutbacks for cotton and rice next year. Another receiving approval, but with some criticism, would require administrators of employe welfare and pension funds to disclose how they handle the money.

Two minor bills were pocket-vetoed. The President thus disposed of 44 more of the measures sent to him in the last days of the recently adjourned Congress. This left 135 bills still to be acted on.

The President said the increases in Social Security benefits and taxes are desirable in the light of economic changes since these provisions were last amended four years ago.

MORE CRITICAL

But he expressed concern over a provision increasing by 197 million dollars a year the federal contribution toward public assistance programs for the needy, aged and disabled. He said such an increase "can lead only to a weakening of the responsibility of the states and communities" in this field.

Eisenhower was even more critical of the welfare fund disclosure bill. He said it establishes a precedent of federal responsibility in this area but nothing else.

He added that if the bill is to be effective it will require extensive amendment.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), one of the Senate sponsors of the legislation, called it "an historic first step in labor reform as well as in the protection of 80 million beneficiaries."

END RACKETEERING

Kennedy conceded much remains to be done, however, and his statement called for passage next year of legislation to "end the racketeering and other abuses" uncovered in the labor-management field by a Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Eisenhower did not issue a statement on his signing of the farm bill, although his approval capped a hard-won victory for the much criticized policies of Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Benson had called the bill a step toward "greater freedom for the nation's farmers."

Townsend Halts Global Jaunt, Heads to London

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend apparently has broken off his round-the-world trip and headed back to London.

He refused to talk to reporters when the Orient Express passed through Trieste, Venice and Milan, but travelers who boarded the train with him said he had a ticket for London. His reasons for changing his plans were not known.

Townsend boarded the train at Zagreb, Yugoslavia, three days after he had set out from Brussels for his second round-the-world trip since his romance with Britain's Princess Margaret came to what appeared to be a dead end.

He had left Brussels after a flurry of press speculation that Margaret was disturbed by purported plans to publish a story of his life, containing details of the romance.

Pope Calls on All Catholic Laymen To Help Stem Reds in Asia, Africa

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI)—Pope Pius XII called on Roman Catholic laymen Friday to help stem the rise of Communism and other "factions" in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

The 82-year-old pontiff spoke to 2,000 members of the Third Order of Dominicans. The delegates, all lay members of the religious order, are holding an international congress in Rome.

They traveled to the Pope's summer residence in the Alban Hills to hear his French language address.

The Pope praised the delegates from 20 countries for linking themselves in prayer and penance with a religious order while pursuing the ordinary vocations of secular life.

He said their intervention, along with members of the Catholic Action group, urgently was needed in helping stem the tide of communism and other "factions."

Wildcat Car Strikes Idle 21,750, Cut '59 Output

DETROIT (UPI) — Wildcat strikes involving 21,750 workers in plants in Michigan and Ohio Friday began to cut into production of 1959 model automobiles.

The number of workers involved in the walkouts climbed steadily as the United Auto Workers union prepared to announce a meeting to set a strike deadline in the deadlocked negotiations with the auto companies.

General Motors, hardest hit by the walkouts, was forced to cut back its operations at the Buick engine plant in Flint, Mich., idling 500 workers, and closed down its Buick assembly plant at Flint, idling another 900.

Ward's Automotive Reports, a statistical agency, reported the walkouts held production to its lowest level in recent years during the past week, when only 24,469 cars and trucks were produced.

Union officials warned the auto companies a full-scale, authorized strike would be called if negotiations aimed at reaching new contracts in the industry did not progress more rapidly.

UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, head of the union negotiating team at GM, said the union would announce next week the date of a union board meeting. The meeting would be aimed at picking a target company and a strike deadline.

The fact that General Motors was hardest hit by the strikes increased speculation that it would be the target of any authorized strike called by the international union. Others, however, pointed out it could be merely a delaying tactic which would prevent GM from building up stocks before a strike was called against one of the other companies.

Strikes at three Buick plants in Flint idled 5,100 workers while shortages of axles and castings caused by the strike forced the company to lay off 1,400 at the Buick assembly and engine plants.

Another 7,000 were idled by a strike at the Pontiac plant in Pontiac, Mich.; 2,300 walked out at a Fisher body plant in Hamilton, Ohio, and 700 were off the job at a Fisher body plant in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Walkouts in Chrysler Corp. plants idled 1,450 at the Detroit Dodge truck plant, 600 at the Detroit forge plant, and 700 at the Detroit Imperial assembly plant.

Ford Motor Co. was hit by strikes which idled 2,100 at three plants in Cleveland.

U.S. Starts Unifying of Commands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense department disclosed Friday that it will establish the first of eight unified commands Sept. 15, as the first step toward reorganization of the armed services into a unified command setup.

It will be known as the U.S. European Command, and will be headed by Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad at Paris.

The next two unified commands will be set up Dec. 1.

They are the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean Command, headed by Adm. James L. Holloway in London, and the Alaska Command, led by Air Force Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong Jr. at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska.

Other commands, to be established Jan. 1 are:

Caribbean, Army Lt. Gen. Ridgely Gaither, Quarry Heights, Canal Zone; Atlantic, Adm. Jerauld Wright, Norfolk, Va.; Pacific, Adm. Harry D. Felt, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Continental Air Defense, Air Force Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Ent Air Force Base, Colo., and Strategic Air Command, Air Force Gen. Thomas Power, Offutt Air Force Base, Neb.

A Defense department spokesman said President Eisenhower had approved these initial steps in the reorganization deemed essential in combat commands to coordinate military land, sea and air forces.

Eisenhower approved plans for each command, the channels of command, the forces assigned to each and the areas involved.

A spokesman said all the forces have not yet been assigned. They will be designated by the defense secretary with approval of Eisenhower.

Orders will be issued through the Joint Chiefs of Staff, transferring each command and its forces from the old to the new structure.

Ike Weighs Fight for Quemoy

GIs To Move In? U.S. Won't Say

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said Friday that President Eisenhower has decided to draw the line on Red China's expansionism. But they refused to say if this meant he would fight for Quemoy, important Chinese Nationalist outpost bombed and threatened by the Reds day after day.

Officials said Eisenhower is trying to sway the Peiping regime out of an invasion. They said the goal is to convince the Communists, without appearing to rattle the saber, that an attack would be folly.

Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker and other top officils have spoken out. But nobody has ever yet said clearly, either publicly or privately, just what this country would do if the Red Chinese do invade the offshore Nationalist islands.

NO APPEASING

It was emphasized in private conversations that Eisenhower feels there is no appeasing Red China, that Peiping must be made to realize aggressive thrusts will be met with U. S. strength and determination.

Officials held their tongues, however, when the question arose as to just how this policy applied to the offshore islands.

U. S. policy is clear on President Chiang Kai-shek's main islands of Formosa and the Pescadores, 100 miles across the Formosa Strait from the mainland. By treaty, the United States is sworn to defend them.

GENERAL ONSLAUGHT

But whether the United States would help Chiang defend the closer-in offshore islands depends upon whether Eisenhower decides an attack on them actually is part of a general onslaught against Formosa.

The U. S. 7th Fleet patrolling the Formosa Strait was reinforced Friday with dispatch of the carrier Midway and a heavy cruiser. There now are more than 50 U. S. warships in the immediate danger zone.

Ike Arrives For Holiday As Daisy Dies

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived here for a vacation Friday a few hours after the fringe winds of hurricane Daisy brushed this resort area.

A Marine helicopter put the President down on the lawn of the temporary White House at Ft. Adams on Narragansett Bay at 5:51 p.m. Just 19 minutes earlier he had landed at Quonset Point, R.I., in his private plane, Columbine III, from Washington.

Mrs. Eisenhower will make the trip to Newport Saturday by automobile.

Daisy whipped out to sea Friday with faltering fury.

"The threat of hurricane Daisy is over for the North Atlantic coast of the United States," the Weather Bureau said.

Secret U.S. Device Can Use Moon To Spy on Earth, Rep. Fulton Says

THE HAGUE, Neherlands (AP)—The Unied States, an American congressman reported Friday, has developed electronic equipment capable of using the moon to spy out what is going on over the entire face of the earth.

He hinted that it could be used to detect instantaneously the launching of intercontinental ballistic missiles or nuclear explosions.

"We can monitor the whole world," Rep. James G. Fulton (R - Pa) told reporters. "This equipment is now being installed. It uses the moon as an artificial satellite. It is startling. It is a great breakthrough."

Fulton talked to newsmen after referring publicly to the moon system at a session here of the International Astronautical Federation. The federation is meeting in Amsterdam but some delegates came here for a meeting on space law.

Fulton is a member of the House Committee for Astronautics and Exploration of Outer Space. There was a brief mention of the moon reconnaissance system at a congressional hearing last April, but at that time Rear Adm. John T. Hayward, chief of naval research and development, gave no details.

Fulton said the system works on a principle of ion emission. Ions are electrified atoms. He implied, without spelling out details, that the detection works by spotting ionization created by such forces as rocket launchings or explosions.

"It sees things back on earth," he said. "It involves bouncing waves off the moon. It is not radar. You would be surprised how good it is. We can tell things going on behind the Iron Curtain.

"This breakthrough makes an operating satellite out of the real moon, even before any probes are sent around the moon or landings made there."

He credited German and Japanese scientists with some of the early discoveries on which the system is based and said the British had helped through their radiotelescope at Jodrell Bank.

"I know we are first in having this," he replied when asked if the Soviet Union might also know about the system.

In response to another question, as to whether the takeoff of an intercontinental ballistic missile could be detected, he said he was not allowed to be that specific, but "such a rocket is a high-powered vehicle. We pick up the fact of what is there. The moon reflects what is going on."

Fulton said the system should be operating soon, but he added he was barred from giving any details. He did say a signal does not have to be sent from the United States to "see" an event somewhere else.

In his formal speech, Fulton said: "The United States is putting the characteristics of the moon to work as an orbiting satellite in a program of practical use for communications between one point and another point on earth. This is done by electronic means."

Navy's Shot For Orbit Set Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy may not have achieved an orbit with its first attempt to launch a 20-inch satellite but it did toss the ball farther across the face of the earth than anyone else has yet been able to.

A Naval Research Laboratory study of the May 27 Vanguard rocket launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla. showed that:

1. The 21½-pound sphere and the 50-pound third-stage rocket trailing it reached a peak altitude of 2,200 miles instead of the 300 or 400 miles planned.

2. They raced southeast for 20 minutes and plunged earthward 7,500 miles from Florida, somewhere off the west coast of South Africa.

Radio signals from the sphere died out, and there was no indication as to whether it or the spent rocket survived the heat of the plunge back through the earth's atmosphere.

However, the Navy said the vehicle's instruments were in the space environment long enough to be of considerable scientific value.

The Vanguard second stage lifted the rocket to 368 miles and the engine failed to cut off properly, thus causing the final stage to fly with its nose at un upward angle instead of parallel to earth. For that reason, the third stage fired upward into a high arc instead of moving horizontally to orbital speed and angle.

U.N. Chief Ends Talks In Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan, (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold wound up three days of talks Friday in broad agreement with Jordanian officials on plans to keep the peace in the troubled Middle East.

A joint communique said the U.N. secretary general will return later for further talks. He left Friday afternoon by plane for Beirut after seeing King Hussein.

The secretary general came here after the emergency session of the U.N. General Assembly authorized him to make arrangements to speed the withdrawal of British troops from Jordan and American troops from Lebanon.

MUCH AGREEMENT

The joint communique said Hammarskjold and the Jordan government reached "a large area of agreement."

Hammarskjold shared the opinion of Jordan that neither a U.N. force nor a border observation group would "adequately serve the purposes which the General Assembly had in mind," the announcement added. Consequently, the communique said, both sides want to develop "other forms of U.N. presence" in Jordan.

U.N. spokesman George Ivan Smith declined to say what forms a U.N. presence might take to uphold Jordan's independence.

NO COMMENT

Asked if it was a fair interference from the communique that Jordan thought U.N. troops were not enough of a presence, Smith said, "No, they might think they are too much."

Smith declined to comment on the fact the communique made no mention of British troops here. The United Arab Republic is demanding their withdrawal.

Hammarskjold planned to spend the night in Beirut and then go to Geneva for an atomic energy conference. He intends to fly back to Cairo Wednesday to resume his Middle East mission.

Warships Hunt Mystery Sub

HONOLULU (UPI) — Navy sources said Friday an unidentified submarine was detected in Hawaiian waters Thursday night and Navy anti-submarine units were alerted but unable to track down the intruder.

A Navy spokesman for the 14th Naval district said he had "no specific comment on this alleged submarine contact." But he added that the Hawaiian sea frontier was engaged in a passive defense exercise which could have caused the alert.

PICKRICK SAYS

Things are fast and changing today. Satellites are in orbit, submarines going under the North Pole, man shooting at the moon, etc. Less than three months ago a man called and said he would be a little late for work as he was at the courthouse arranging to get married. So I wasn't too surprised the other day when this same man told me his wife was in the hospital awaiting the arrival of their child. Just everything is getting faster.

AND SO

is service at the Pickrick, where you get free parking, wonderful food and all the extra hot coffee and iced tea you can drink at no extra charge.

REAL ESTATE TAXES

WENT UP ABOUT 20% this year and the other evening an Atlanta alderman said they are going up seven mills, or about 25% in January. This must not happen . . . property owners cannot stand any more tax load on real estate, and should not be required to bear the heavy load of government expense, almost alone. Government and its services belongs to all of us and we must all contribute a fair share to the expense of government.

WE MUST HAVE

more efficiency in government and if more money is needed then I suggest a one per cent city sales tax which would provide needed revenue and at the same time reduce real estate tax twenty-five per cent rather than increase it.

I'M FOR

home rule but not full and complete control of our city as suggested by the home rule bill of our alderman. I got enough of that kind of home rule when I married and believe you me, I don't love any of the Atlanta politicians enough to give them that much control over me and my fellow citizens.

I MAY NOT be able to do much about your tax burdens but I do much to control the food quality and prices at The Pickrick, and I promise to see that you always get wonderful food at the lowest prices possible when you visit The Pickrick.

Paint Assn. Makes Belated Proposal

A paint association which represents 46 companies has asked the State of Georgia not to get into the paint business but to do a carefully regulated trade with established companies.

The association suggests rules for such purchases by the state. They are good rules and are as follows:

1. Furnish specifications as part of the bids.
2. Send invitations to all reputable companies and manufacturers of paints or their designated distributors.
3. Require "middle-man" firms to cite their supplier.
4. Require bidders to certify whether an agent or person outside his own organization has received or will receive any fee in connection with the bid.

The Atlanta Constitution urged, at the time the governor announced he would put the state convicts to making paint, that legitimate business with taxpaying businessmen was much more preferable.

Putting the state in the paint business is the wrong approach. All that was needed was for the state to get rid of the broker-business, middleman plan and to buy paint as cheaply as do our sister states. It was simple—just pay what others pay—not more.

We still feel that way.

But we also wish to be candid. One of the things that makes for corrupt buying practices in this or any other state is the connivance of businessmen. Some of them are so eager to get state business they will make almost any sort of agreement to get it. The state can't do expensive, padded purchasing unless the businessman participates in the scheme. A number of firms in paint and other fields of enterprise have refused to join in such practices. But many of them play ball.

Why, we ask, is the paint association so late in urging such rules? Where was the association when the state was paying more money for paint than its neighbors?

It isn't too impressive to wait until the business is about to be lost before business morality raises its voice. We could well understand if the governor and his people are contemptuous of this belated appeal.

Nonetheless we strongly support the paint association and welcome its recommendations on the basis that it is better late than never.

If it and other organizations will discourage their members and those outside it from being willing to do business which involves fees and padding, the taxpayer will get a break.

Traffic Problem Here Requires Firm Action

Traffic Engineer Karl Bevins' opposition to a grand jury recommendation to increase speed limits on expressways is based on a long and careful study.

Although a better flow of traffic is a desirable goal and one which must be approached from all angles, safety must never be sacrificed in the effort to attain the objective.

Much more serious than the problem on the expressways is that of improving or even maintaining the present rate of vehicular movement in the downtown area.

The solution to a very large extent is contingent upon extension of parking bans on heavily traveled streets in line with recommendations of the Atlanta Traffic and Transportation Commission, elimination of left turns at busy intersections wherever feasible and designation of additional areas where one lane is devoted to exclusive use of trolleys and buses.

Moreover, there must be strict enforcement of existing parking restrictions. Cars parked along such thoroughfares as DeKalb avenue and Memorial drive during the rush hours, for example, serve to defeat the effectiveness of the lane-lights system.

The day has long since gone when Atlanta could afford to waste street space in its core area or on its arteries leading into the downtown section. The sooner would-be parkers are made to realize that fact, the better.

Nasser Carefully Limits His Banning of Sacks

The sack is on the way out in Egypt, too.

There the sack is the galabia, a flowing nightshirt-like garment worn traditionally by Egyptian men.

President Nasser says the galabia must go. It's dangerous. Workers trip over their galabias in factories and get hurt.

So the order has gone out through all Egypt that the standard dress for government workers, private companies and all factories will be trousers and a shirt. That is, for men.

Even Nasser is wary about telling his womenfolk what to wear.

What the West would like to see now is for the Egyptian men to hitch up their pants and give Nasser the sack.

Why Not Be Realistic About Mental Health?

The Georgia Assn. of Mental Health says that the state's new law on commitment of the mentally ill is being ignored and is endangered for lack of use. There seems to be several reasons for this, primarily stemming from the fact its use is optional.

In addition there appears to be considerable misunderstanding of what the new law is as well as some ambiguities in the law itself.

The association recommends that the next Legislature clarify the law. One of the best methods of doing this should be to remove the optional clause. Certainly ordinaries and others concerned with commitments to the state hospital would be reluctant to change from the old practices they know so well.

Georgia still has a long way to go along the road to realism in handling the mental health problem. It is not mere happenstance that our record in restoring the mentally ill to health is the worst in the nation. It is no accident either that the State Hospital at Milledgeville has such a huge population.

As long as we consider the mentally ill as primarily a welfare problem and the institution at Milledgeville a custodial center for all types of afflicted, including the senile and the alcoholic, the situation will not improve. And until it becomes a little more difficult to commit the unwanted to Milledgeville, its population will continue to grow.

Mental health is a medical as well as a welfare problem. Until more attention is given to the medical aspects, little progress can be made in meeting it.

Deserved Tribute Paid To Smythe Gambrell

Atlanta is pleased by the honor done E. Smythe Gambrell, Atlanta attorney and former president of the American Bar Association. The association's highest award, its medal for conspicuous service, has been presented Mr. Gambrell.

The Atlantan was president during one of the great years of the association. He was the sparkplug of the program which took the American bar to Great Britain, the home of common law, and the birthplace, too, of our own law and its developments of courts and practice.

The Atlanta Constitution joins Mr. Gambrell's friends in pleasure and pride in this tribute paid him.

Peaceful, Happy Tonga Signs Friendship Pact

We are made happy by the fact that the Pacific Kingdom of Tonga has signed a new friendship treaty with Great Britain, including the status of being under British protection while retaining local autonomy.

In all the islands of this kingdom there are no terrorist activities by extremists of any kind. No one is bombing innocent persons in cafes or buses. There is no Communist or independence movement. There seems to be no one really in want or misery.

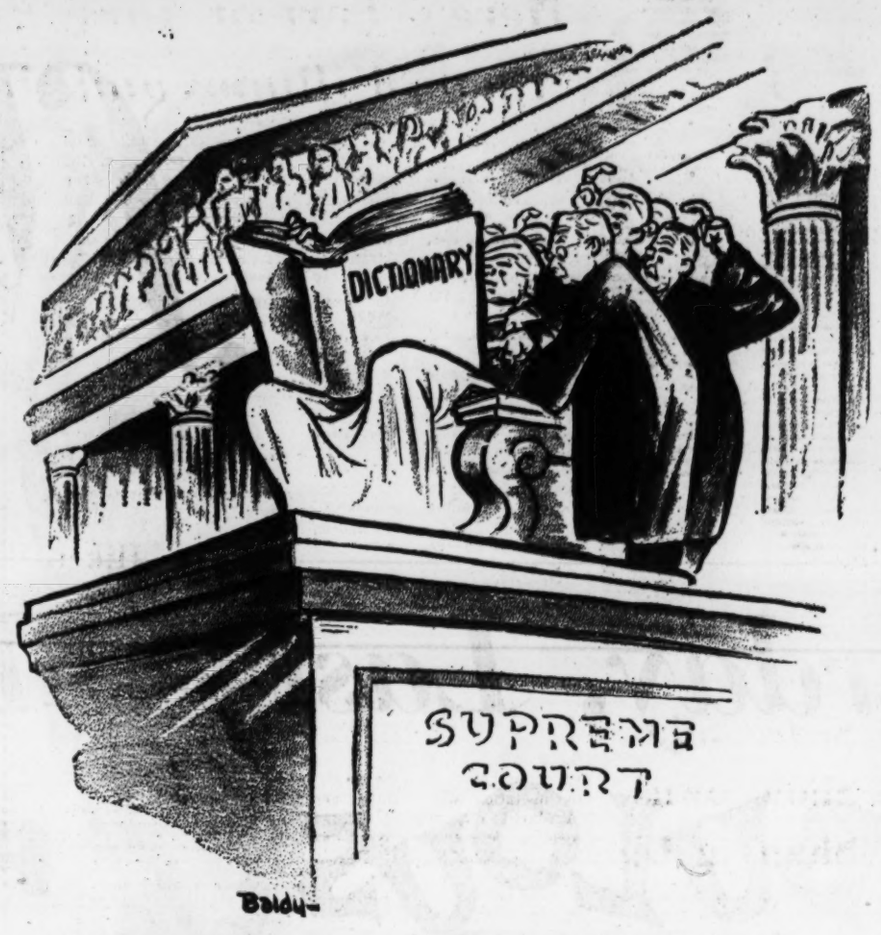

The queen, Salote, moves about her capital city of Nukualofa without guards, protected only by the love of her people. She is the tall woman with the magnificent face and personality who captivated the crowds in London (and the millions on television) at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth in June, 1953. It rained that day but Queen Salote, as befits a real monarch, defied the elements and sat happily in her open carriage, rain-soaked and smiling, all through the long hours of the processional.

Tonga is north of New Zealand and southeast of the Fiji Islands. Captain Cook visited the islands 200 years ago and named them "The Friendly Islands" because of the hospitality of the people. Before departure he gave the islanders a turtle. It is significant, we think, that the turtle is still alive and thriving, refusing to die when it can live in Tonga.

In fact, if you see us buying travel folders and inquiring about retirement possibilities in Tonga, be not surprised. It seems the only place on earth where presently all is serene, happy and friendly.

Georgian Urges County Consolidation As Way To Promote Economy, Efficiency

Macon — As the politicians indicate their determination to keep the people permanently under the undemocratic pall of the county unit method of thwarting the will of the people, a system should be adopted to circumvent such a plot.

The most effective method for such circumvention is a major consolidation.

As Georgia is in the inexcusably uneconomic position of having a gross excess of counties, economy and efficiency would be greatly promoted by such action.

Comparison with two adjoining states, Alabama and Florida, gives clear evidence of Georgia's excess of counties. Each has 67 counties against 159 for Georgia.

Alabama does not have a county with less than 10,000 population and its smallest county has 11,766 with an average county population of 45,698.

Florida has 22 counties with less than 10,000 population, the smallest having 3,182, with an average county population of 41,363.

Georgia has 63 counties with less than 10,000 population, the smalles. having 2,944.

Millions of dollars could be saved in operational expenses with consequent reduction in taxes.

The idled buildings could be put to much more profitable use as hospitals, libraries and schools, to everybody's profit, except the parasitic politicians.

'Old Varner House Steeped in History'

Blue Ridge — The Waycross Journal-Herald's timely article, "Georgia Should Capitalize on Her Glorious History," should be taken seriously and used to bring the state before the world in its true light. But to those fine instances of history mentioned in this article should also be added the rich Indian lore surrounding the old Varner House at Indian Springs where there is a bronze tablet on the rock on which McIntosh stood, put there by the Colonial Dames many years ago.

Atlantan Points Out Problem of Nurses

Atlanta — In reference to Charles Moore's recent article titled "Hospitals Voice Great Need for More Nurses in Georgia":

Being a registered nurse myself, I can understand why we do not have enough nurses. A student cannot stand state board examination without proper training. Some educational directors are nurses holding only an R.N. degree with no other form of formal education. There are some supervisors trying to run our hospitals with only R.N. degrees with no form of formal education.

So it is understood why our students are failing the state board examination. Is this fair to our student nurses and to their families who have financed their way through training?

Solution Suggested For South's Schools

Miami, Fla. — I guess no one can deny the truth of your conclusions in regard to the President's "duty" in connection with the Little Rock.

However, it seems to me that the federal courts and their United States marshals should be called upon to enforce court orders rather than federal soldiers.

It is my understanding that in Little Rock there is a white high school (Central High) and a Negro high school, each full. It seems that nine Negro students decided that the Negro teachers weren't as competent as the white teachers in the white school, so they wanted in that school. Suppose all Negro students were of the same mind and they were allowed to enter the white school. Seems they would be just a little overcrowded.

I think a legal and ready solution to t' is problem would be for about 500 white students to demand admission to the Negro school. I'm almost certain that the Negroes would object.

Life You Lose Will Be Yours

When the Good Lord created the universe, He didn't finish the job. He made an imperfect world and charged man to work toward perfection. He roughed out the route and marked it: Travel At Your Own Risk. Most of us like it that way. Life in a world where everything was pat and perfect would be no challenge. Nor much fun.

But it's discouraging, the little that man has done to reduce the risk.

The road has never been so good. Nor as well marked.

The signs say: Safety First, High Voltage, Handle With Care, Curve Ahead, Yield Right of Way, Come to a Complete Stop.

The vehicle in which we travel —you can call it materialism— has never been better.

But man insists on negating the improvement by increasing the risk.

Consider the automobile — in every way better, more comfortable, mechanically safer.

Yet given power brakes with which he can stop on the proverbial dime, even after inflation, man steps up the speed until his chances are not worth 10 cents.

Make it four headlights where there were two and the driver double dares the dark, winding up in a total blackout.

We have improved everything except man himself.

Man won't stand still and read the instructions.

So on the highway, history repeats itself. And each time it repeats the price goes up.

Comes now the long Labor Day holiday. We editorialists are at it again, trying to reduce the risk.

Why don't we just fold up the typewriters and give up?

Someone asked Benjamin Franklin why he whipped his son the 20th time and Ben said, "Unless I whip him the 20th time, the other 19 whippings are lost."

That's why we keep on—at the Christmas season, New Year, Memorial Day, the Fourth and Labor Day—hoping with each editorial advisory a few more folks will listen, a few more will get the message — safety is highly personal.

You build a better world by building better men and women.

You make a safer world by making men and women safety conscious.

You come right back to the words of my friend, Ron Wilson, a Miami minister: "The world is as it is because you are as you are. The starting place for a better world is a better individual."

That brings it close to home. That's where a safe Labor Day weekend begins.

Travel at Your Own Risk: The life you lose is bound to be your own.

United States Developing Symptoms of Pactomania

Let's check Uncle Sam's major pledges to other nations. Secretary Dulles has tied this country to Iran and Pakistan at the Baghdad Pact meeting in London. We still have not formally joined the pact (which may or may not still have a Baghdad member) but we promised special defensive agreements with members and Dulles himself interpreted our relationship as "full cooperation."

So now we have these commitments plus the Baghdad one:

North Atlantic treaty with Canada and 13 nations reaching from Norway to Turkey—"an armed attack against one or more . . . . shall be considered an attack against them all."

Rio treaty with 20 Latin American nations—an armed attack on one "shall be considered as an attack against all and . . . each one . . . undertakes to assist in meeting the attack."

Southeast Asia treaty with seven nations—"in case of aggression its members will consult immediately in order to agree to measures which should be taken for common defense."

Anzus treaty with Australia and New Zealand—members agree to "act to meet . . . common danger."

Bilateral treaties with the Philippines, Japan, Korea, Nationalist China; economic-political agreements with Panama, Spain, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, Libya and Ethiopia; a tripartite declaration concerning Israel's security and a pledge to maintain the independence and territorial integrity of Austria.

There has probably never been a web of such widespread commitments by any one nation. Writing recently in the New York Times, Hanson W. Baldwin said that the United States is tied by specific mutual assistance treaties to 44 nations covering 17 million square miles and having populations of 630 million.

How far we have departed in a few short years from the Founding Fathers' warning of no entangling alliances and the policy of isolation which marked most of our national history!

Some call it "pactomania." These critics claim it limits American independence of action, gives allies control over our policies, commits us to maintenance of unpopular regimes, puts unbearable financial burdens on our taxpayers.

Advocates call it "collective security" and see it as the only way to deal successfully with Soviet Russian aggression and its many faces.

Whoever is right, the net of American commitments reaches along communism's borders all around the globe—with the only gap in India and small areas of Southeast Asia.

Christianity Puts Emphasis on Love

There is a story of a little girl who lived in Connecticut who had some difficulty in learning the Lord's Prayer. She tried hard but the best she could do was, "Our Father, who art in New Haven, how did you know my name?" She didn't know it, of course, but she had revealed something of her understanding of God. God was in Connecticut and He knew her name.

All of us need the assurance that God is where we are and that He knows of our little lives.

But when we think much about it we begin to wonder why God wants to be where we are and what could possibly induce Him to be concerned with our individual lives. Yet the testimony of the Bible is that God is with us and that He cares.

The only explanation of these facts is that God is a God who loves. I think the most wonderful thing about God is His love. Of course, I admire His power, His majesty and His wisdom and I stand before all these aspects of God with a trembling and fearful heart. But I don't love God because He made me. I love Him because He first loved me. I want as much as I am able to love Him with the same completeness and fidelity and unselfishness as He loves me.

When I read through the New Testament I become aware that the central teaching of Christ and His church is that we must love God and our fellowmen. The Old Testament, of course, tells us of the love of God, but His love isn't described as central and supreme. And various world religions teach the need for love, but in none of them is love basic and fundamental.

I think it is right to say that the most distinctive thing about Christianity is its emphasis on love. Christianity teaches that love is greater than faith or hope and promises if we keep Christ's commands we shall abide in His love. That is life's greatest boon. When we love we are born of God. Perfect love removes all fear from our lives.

All love that enriches our lives and our human relationships mirrors the greater love of God. Before we learned to love, God loved us.

The measure of God's love is shown in two beloved Bible verses: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16). St. Paul wrote, "God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). God's love is a merciful love that seeks and saves even those who reject Him or turn from Him.

Talmadge, Russell Working Together

WASHINGTON—A yardstick of just how closely Sens. Russell and Talmadge have been working in harmony in Talmadge's first year in the Senate is their record on roll-call votes. A cursory check of 20 key votes reveals that Russell and Talmadge agreed 90 per cent of the time.

The votes of both senators also ran close to 90 per cent conservative on such issues as states' rights, Alaskan statehood, foreign aid, reciprocal trade, aid to education, labor bills, excise tax cuts, farm legislation and others.

One of the few times the two Georgia senators disagreed was when Russell voted for and Talmadge against a humane slaughter bill aimed at requiring packing houses to be more merciful in killing livestock. One other disagreement was a relatively minor one on a farm bill amendment.

On 12 key roll calls selected by the New York Times as indicative of the Senate's work this year, Russell cast what might be considered 10 conservative and two liberal votes, with Talmadge 11 conservative and one liberal tally.

In his first term as a freshman senator, Talmadge undeniably made a good impression on both his colleagues and press. He gained a healthy respect for Russell, which was reciprocated, and the two men appear to be firm friends with their ties closely knit.

In the House of Representatives the Georgia delegation cast conservative votes on most issues, usually as a unit, although they split on some issues. The three most conservative Georgians were Reps. James C. Davis, E. L. (Tic) Forrester and John J. Flynt Jr., while the most liberal tendencies were shown by Rep. Erwin Mitchell.

As a freshman congressman, Mitchell followed right along in the footsteps of the man he succeeded, the late Rep. Henderson Lanham — conservative but not quite as far to the right as his colleagues.

Mitchell also took a leaf out of Talmadge's book as he conducted himself with quiet dignity as a freshman.

Ruling his Armed Services Committee with an iron hand, as usual, Rep. Carl Vinson maintained his position as one of the most influential members of Congress. Rep. Jack Flynt was one of the busiest, involved as he was in the Adams-Goldfine investigation that ran most of the session.

Influential, too, was Rep. Prince Preston on the Appropriations Committee, Rep. Paul Brown on banking and currency, Rep. Phil Landrum on health, education and welfare, Rep. Jim Davis on post office, civil service and the District of Columbia, Rep. J. L. Pilcher on foreign affairs, Rep. Tic Forrester on judiciary, Rep. Iris Blitch on public works.

Forrester was gratified at getting through his committee and the House a series of bills to curb the Supreme Court's powers, but disappointed that they didn't pass the Senate. Pilcher was pleased that the House stood firm, as he urged, against the Benson farm bill and forced the secretary of agriculture finally to yield a bit so Congress could pass a compromise more to the South's liking, especially on cotton acreage.

Paperwork Galore Pesters Teachers

This is the time when students go romping back to school, their little heads bursting with emptiness and awaiting the installation therein of knowledge. They must be introduced to a sometimes-leering environment, their moral fiber dunked in starch and steel rods welded to the framework of civic responsibility.

These are a part of the things taught in school in addition to the mathematical steps which lead to the stars, out where the satellites play.

The lessons will be more difficult in many schools this year for man has opened a new horizon beyond the rim of the earth. The space age is here and America is challenged. This is the time for the educator.

It is the teacher as well as the student who will feel the shadow of the passing Sputniks. Teaching is an exacting and sometimes frustrating business that is wound around with all the world that is knowledge and all the world that is the record of knowledge being imparted. During the past week, when teachers were busy getting ready for the opening of school, I did some snooping and discovered to my amazement that the amount of paperwork a teacher must do to teach is enough to give a battery of IBMs the hiccoughs. This will not come as news to teachers, but perhaps there is some portion of the lay world that is as ignorant as I in this respect.

Teachers serve on committees within the school, such groups as textbook, testing and guidance, faculty planning, instruction, school patrol and student supply committees and there are joint committees with the PTA.

Teachers have to turn in daily attendance records, keep up with the lunch money, maintain cumulative records that include standard test sheets for each child, placement sheets, health cards, records of parent-teacher conferences, absence excuses. Insurance must be explained to the students and forms filled out. Standardized tests must be given, scores and interpretations recorded. Weekly and monthly attendance records have to be handed in, daily and weekly tests given, graded and recorded. The teaching schedule must be worked out weeks in advance, each textbook with page number of lessons. And there are the report cards.

In between reports and committees come PTA meetings and other activities to sweep up any time that is left over.

This system undoubtedly has its advantages. The school is in intimate touch with each pupil, his problems are the school's problems. Technically, he should be getting a better education because of administrative enlightenment on all sides and perhaps he really is on the way to the stars. Maybe he'll wave a last goodby to the teacher as she drops below the horizon, lost behind a mound of paper work.

Merit Law Violations Admitted by Williams

134 others are being paid at variance to merit salary scales.

At Gov. Griffin's press conference Thursday morning, Williams said, "I have violated no law . . ."

The Constitution reported last April that more than 300 Revenue Department employes had no Merit System appointments. Gov. Griffin and the Merit Board later ordered him to comply with regulations.

The jury recommended to the incoming grand jury, which will be sworn in Tuesday, that "it consider as one of its most important projects the following up of the solemn promise" of Williams, "reporting thereon and taking whatever action" is needed.

BEST SERVICE

Without mentioning the proposed indictment, the jury said it "believes that its best service to the revenue department, the personnel board, the employes of the state government and the people of Georgia will be rendered by . . . bringing about compliance" to merit laws.

"All of the departments of the state government have made a diligent effort to comply with the Merit System, with the exception of the State Revenue Department," the jury declared in the beginning of the special presentment.

"This grand jury finds that there have been flagrant violations of the letter and spirit of the regulations in that department.

"The state commissioner of revenue appeared before the grand jury by invitation and admitted certain areas wherein his department is deficient in compliance with the Merit System regulations . . ."

THE BULWARK

The jury said it feels the system is the bulwark protecting the state from "political patronage appointments" and added that it desired to lend its support toward "re-establishing complete faith" in the system and enforcing compliance with its purposes.

Williams spent approximately an hour before the jury during which he apparently began with contentions that he had violated no laws. He distributed to grand jury members copies of a memorandum brief prepared by his attorney, William Hall, contending he has violated no laws.

Hall accompanied Williams to the grand jury witness waiting room and advised with him while he waited to appear before the jury and during an 18-minute intermission when Williams was sent out by the jury.

REQUEST DECLINED

Hall said he requested Fulton Sol. Gen. Paul Webb that he be given "five minutes in which to point out that the proposed indictment is worthless. My request was declined."

The brief Williams passed out in the jury room contended the revenue commissioner is exempted from the Merit System law, that the violation of an administrative act is not a criminal offense and that the Merit System act contains "an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power."

When Williams left the grand jury room, he would make no comment. He and Hall said Williams didn't "want to talk because we don't know what the score is."

CALLED SWAIN

The jury had called Merit System Director E. L. Swain, revenue personnel officer Wyman Harris and many of the employes in question. Also subpoenaed were records of the employes.

Only persons called before the jury, however, were Swain, tax examiner Roy Bell and Williams. Swain spent about an hour before the jury. Bell heatedly defended Williams and his hiring by the revenue department, saying he passed merit examinations and that he was hired "through regular channels."

The grand jury, which had earlier indicted Williams on charges he converted to his own use $46,928 from his fund to combat illegal liquor, also had something to say about the fund and about liquor licenses.

Saying that it does not believe in private funds for law enforcement, the jury said it believes the state "should provide a fund for informers, undercover agents and other expenses so necessary for the positive operation of illegal liquor control.

FEDERAL AGENCIES

It said that federal agencies have such funds and that effectiveness of their operations would be reduced 40 to 50 per cent without the use of the funds.

The jury recommended that the Fulton legislative delegation start a move to have such funds provided by the state "with proper safeguards during the next Legislature session."

Regarding liquor licenses, the jury said there are "constant rumors and accusations concerning the granting of liquor licenses." It recommended procedures be devised so that every phase of granting licenses "shall be devoid of all favoritism and political considerations be eliminated in the granting of licenses."

dered by this Grand Jury bringing about compliance with the Regulations of the Merit System.

This Grand Jury recommends to the incoming Grand Jury that it consider as one of its most important projects the follow-up of the solemn promise made by the Revenue Commissioner of Georgia, reporting thereon, and taking whatever action is indicated.

We recommend to the Court that these presentments be published in The Atlanta Constitution, The Atlanta Journal, and the Fulton County Daily Report not later than September 3, 1958.

This the 29th day of August, 1958.

Here's Text of Jury Presentment About Williams and Merit System

The following is the text of the special presentment of the Fulton County Grand Jury relating to Commissioner T. V. Williams and the State Merit System:

This Grand Jury believes that the Merit System of State Personnel Administration is the bulwark protecting the State from excessive political patronage appointments and protecting State employees who have made a career of such employment. The System is therefore commended to the people of Georgia and its extension into other departments strongly advocated.

For these reasons, this Grand Jury desires to lend its support toward re-establishing complete faith in the Merit System and enforcing compliance with its laudable purposes.

All of the departments of the State government have made a diligent effort to comply with the Merit System, with the exception of the State Revenue Department. This Grand Jury finds that there have been flagrant violations of the letter and spirit of the regulations in that Department. The State Commissioner of Revenue appeared before the Grand Jury by invitation and admitted certain areas wherein his Department is deficient in compliance with the Merit System Regulations.

The Commissioner made a solemn promise to the Grand Jury that he would, within 45 days from today, bring his Department into compliance with the Merit System Regulations. Included in this understanding, among other things, was a promise to discharge personnel who have not passed the Merit System examination, or who are otherwise unqualified under the Regulations, to reduce salaries of persons receiving compensation in excess of the compensation plan of the Merit System and to elevate salaries of those who are receiving compensation below the scale specified in the Merit System Compensation Plan.

The Commissioner further agreed to make a full report to the September-October Grand Jury at any time after 45 days from today.

This Grand Jury has taken this action in the firm belief that the Personnel Board, and the Merit System administered thereunder is a valid and Constitutional organ of the State. The Grand Jury believes that its best service to the Revenue Department, the Personnel Board, the employees of the State government, and the people of Georgia, will be rendered by this Grand Jury bringing about compliance with the Regulations of the Merit System.

This Grand Jury recommends to the incoming Grand Jury that it consider as one of its most important projects the follow-up of the solemn promise made by the Revenue Commissioner of Georgia, reporting thereon, and taking whatever action is indicated.

We recommend to the Court that these presentments be published in The Atlanta Constitution, The Atlanta Journal, and the Fulton County Daily Report not later than September 3, 1958.

This the 29th day of August, 1958.

HOLDS LEGISLATURE
Gov. Orval Faubus

Segregation Showdowns Shaping Up

school's start already had been put off from Sept. 2 to 8.

Faubus delayed signing these and others of the measures as a "matter of strategy."

He did sign an act holding the Legislature under call for any further emergency action until Feb. 10, start of their regular session.

The Supreme Court's Sept. 11 session will be to decide whether to void an 8th Circuit Court of Appeals edict for immediate integration at Little Rock and let stand a U. S. District Court order for a 2½-year delay, or vice versa.

The high court heard three hours of argument in a rare emergency meeting Thursday before recessing and calling for the later arguments.

Taipei Sure Blows Mean Red Invasion

One started at dawn and lasted four hours. Another came just before dusk. A third started after dark and lasted two hours. The fourth started up two hours before midnight.

For the fourth straight day there were no reports of Communist air activity.

The Peiping broadcast of the ultimatum to Quemoy's defenders materially altered the opinion of many American military experts who had believed the Red Chinese buildup opposite Formosa was largely a war of nerves.

Similar threats against Quemoy by loudspeakers and leaflets are standard Communist psychological procedure, but American officials believed the broadcast to the world had put the Reds in the position of having to follow through or lose face.

"They almost have to attack now to keep their prestige," one American said.

Nationalists here were taking the same view.

"We must expect an invasion attempt" said Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-tu, Defense Ministry spokesman.

This estimate differed from that of the British Foreign Office. A spokesman told a news conference Friday that British diplomatic reports from the Far East indicated "no worsening of the situation or that an invasion may be near."

Liu said intense artillery attacks had not softened island defense, and Nationalist guns on Quemoy had opened counterfire.

He declared that Communist claims to having blockaded sealanes between Quemoy and Formosa, 105 miles across the strait, were a "gross lie." American military spokesmen supported his statement.

Nationalist and American Air Force jet fighters patrolled Formosa's shores and were poised at their bases ready for quick action. U.S. 7th Fleet warships and carrier-based planes were on a 24-hour combat-ready alert.

Architects Get Green Light on Airport Plans

Architects Friday were given the go-ahead to draw up plans and specifications for the new $12-million Atlanta Municipal Airport terminal and building.

Aldermanic aviation committee chairman Jesse Draper said a survey of funds Friday revealed that after acceptance of bids, construction could begin early in 1959.

Roberts & Co. Associates, architects, will deliver plans and specifications by Oct. 1 to selected contractors, who will submit bids for the construction by Nov. 10.

Draper said the building program would take between a year and a half to two years.

Convictions of Ingram and 7 Upheld by Appeals Court was a large scale gambling enterprise being conducted and that each of the appellants had a part in it."

It also pointed out:

"The appellants contend that the conviction cannot stand unless it appears that they knew a (gambling) tax was payable, that they knew it had not been paid and that their activity was done with an intent to evade and defeat the payment of it. . . .

"It was not necessary that the government prove that the appellants knew of the (federal) statue (of which they were convicted of violating). . . .

"The question as to whether the conspiracy was for the purpose of evading and defeating the requirements of the federal law was for the jury and the jury's verdict has resolved the question."

Ingram was also convicted in State Court of bribing Atlanta policemen in the course of his operations. But the Georgia Court of Appeals overturned the sentence of 10 to 26 years and ordered a new trial. The new trial has not yet been scheduled.

50 City Hikers To Attend Rally In N. Carolina

Fifty Atlantans will represent Georgia this weekend at the annual Appalachian Trail Club meeting to be held at the Deep Creek Camp Ground near Bryson City, N.C.

Henry B. Morris, president of the Georgia Appalachian Trail Club, said other organizations taking part in the meeting will be the Carolina Mountain Club, the Smoky Mountain Hiking Club, the Tennessee-Eastman Hiking Club, and the Nantahala Hiking Club.

One in Four Is Faulty Driver

NEW YORK (AP)—During the past four days, 1,200 persons volunteered to take driving tests in a special project conducted by police and other agencies. The findings: One out of every four either needs to learn to drive better, or to improve vision through corrective eyeglasses.

Schweitzer College Head Here, Describes Goals

By KAY McLEOD

The founder of a unique college that is a "living memorial" to Albert Schweitzer visited Atlanta this week.

He is Prof. Hans Casparis, minister in the Swiss Reform Church, principal of a Swiss public school, and founder and president of the Albert Schweitzer College in Churwalden, Switzerland.

The professor was in Atlanta visiting Dr. Edward A. Cahill, pastor of the United Liberal Church. Dr. Cahill is one of a number of Americans who founded a group to aid the college when it was just a summer camp some eight years ago. Since then he has taught at the summer seminar for six years.

The school, Prof. Casparis reports, was founded with the "very emphatic support of Schweitzer, who wrote that he would be very glad to give his name to the institution."

SCHWEITZER AN IDEAL

Prof. Casparis came under the influence of Schweitzer in 1922. He personally met the musician-theologian - missionary - doctor-author in 1926 when Schweitzer was working to establish a hospital.

"I found in him that religious conception I was looking for.

"After World War II," Prof. Casparis relates, "when Europe was full of despair and didn't know where to turn, I began to feel that the picture of such a man would help young people find the clarity of life which they were seeking."

Finally in 1950, with the help of people around the world, the school became a reality. It began as a summer camp and finally grew into a one-year college.

UNUSUAL SCHOOL

Unlike American schools, the Albert Schweitzer college offers no credits for study, requires no entrance examinations or proof of previous scholastic degrees. Students are chosen by screening committees who study the student's biography, his reasons for wanting to come, his attitudes toward life and his recommendations.

"We want to help those who look for a clear life concept and are able to study and become responsible individuals in a democratic society. We try to pick out people who will get on to important posts later in life."

Classes and lectures are held to a minimum, but some of the biggest European and American names in government, educational and theological circles are listed among instructors at the school.

FROM 10 NATIONS

Major emphasis is placed on discussion projects. Courses are taught in German and English, but students often learn several other languages, since students come from some 10 countries.

At present only 24 students are enrolled in the school, due to space limitations.

In a world filled with specialists, says Prof. Casparis, the school's emphasis is on "the whole man."

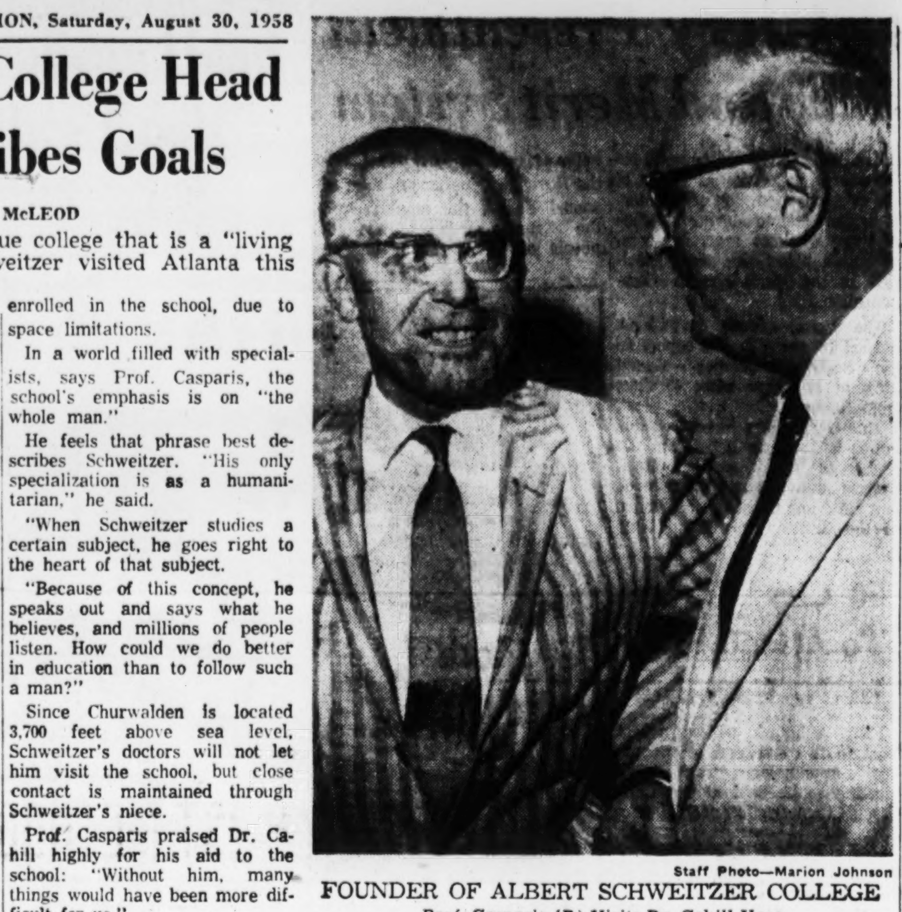

He feels that phrase best describes Schweitzer. "His only specialization is as a humanitarian," he said.

"When Schweitzer studies a certain subject, he goes right to the heart of that subject.

"Because of this concept, he speaks out and says what he believes, and millions of people listen. How could we do better in education than to follow such a man?"

Since Churwalden is located 3,700 feet above sea level, Schweitzer's doctors will not let him visit the school, but close contact is maintained through Schweitzer's niece.

Prof. Casparis praised Dr. Cahill highly for his aid to the school: "Without him, many things would have been more difficult for us."

R. L. Vansant Takes State Farm Post

R. L. Vansant, who has resigned as state director of the Farmer's Home Administration, has accepted an appointment in the State Department of Agriculture, State Commissioner Phil Campbell announced.

R. L. Vansant

Vansant will head the warehouse section and serve as liaison between the department and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Georgia College of Agriculture. He will begin work Tuesday.

A native of Cobb County, Vansant is a graduate of the University of Georgia and served as county agent in Murray, Walker, and Cobb Counties for nearly 15 years before joining the USDA.

In 1952, he received a superior service award from the secretary of agriculture for outstanding service to Georgia farm families.

Commissioner Campbell praised Vansant as director of FHA. "He has helped thousands of farm families make the transition from share cropping and tenant farming to farm ownership."

Didn't Know Bid Law, Purchasing Aide Asserts

Testifies to Legislative Probers On Corrections Department Case

By BRUCE GALPHIN

State purchasing aide W. E. Massee testified Friday that when he permitted a Board of Corrections member to bid on Corrections Department supplies he "did not know" of a law banning such practices.

Massee told a joint appropriations subcommittee that he has since learned of the law and that it has been "a long time" since board member Raleigh Rollins of Bainbridge has bid on Corrections Department jobs.

Rollins' R. and H. Inc. sold refrigerators to the Corrections Department and bid unsuccessfully against George P. Whitman Jr.'s firm on supplying paint to the department.

"RIDICULOUSLY HIGH"

Massee disagreed with Sen. Bobby Lee Cook's contention that Whitman's bid was "ridiculously high," however, and said the Corrections Department should have rejected the bid if it was high.

Testimony came on the third and highly acrimonious day of investigation into the Purchasing Department's practice.

The hearing featured another clash between Cook and Purchasing Supervisor Lawton Shaw. Shaw demanded to know the source of Cook's question Thursday about an alleged "pay-off" request.

As tempers mounted, Cook offered to waive his immunity as a committee member so that Shaw could sue him. "I've got your record," Shaw retorted. "I think the papers ought to have it so they'll know who's heading the committee."

"NO WEALTHIER"

Though Shaw refused to answer what he considered personal questions about his finances, he did tell the subcommittee: "I'm no wealthier now than when I went into office—probably less."

Massee likewise denied that he had become wealthier through his official connections.

Cook questioned Massee at length about his personal automobile purchases, and Massee revealed that he had bought a new English Ford for his daughter for $600.

The auto had been won by Highway Board Chairman Roy Chalker for one dollar, Massee said. He said he bought it from a Waynesboro dealer who gave Chalker a trade-in on it. List price of the vehicle is about $1,200 or $1,300, Massee said.

Cook asked Massee to bring the cancelled $600 check issued on the purchase at the committee's meeting, which will be sometime after the primary election.

Cook asked Massee whether he knew of brokerage firms' paying other companies to submit fake bids so the brokerage firms could be sure of getting state business. Massee denied knowledge of any such deals.

Lokey Urges 'Tip to Dome' Overhauling

Georgia needs a complete overhaul of its state government from "tip to dome," former Fulton legislator Hamilton Lokey declared Friday night.

He said that unless the change is made that Georgians face either new taxes or a decrease in services.

Lokey delivered his comments during WSB-TV's "Meet the Candidates" program along with Fulton County's other candidates for the state legislature.

Rep. Wilson Brooks, whom Lokey is trying to unseat, said he is for economy in government and wants to halt useless spending.

J. Harold Vaughan, who opposes Rep. Ralph McClelland, said his opponent's record shows that McClelland failed to vote on homestead exemptions for disabled veterans and was absent much of the time.

McClelland said he has never been "controlled or dominated by any group." He added that he has tried to be the active, independent, aggressive candidate that the people of Fulton County want.

F. W. (Buddy) Griffin and Franklin Rodgers, running against M. M. (Muggsy) Smith, continued to hammer away at the veteran legislator's absentee record in the House of Representatives, claiming he was absent over 50 per cent of the time.

Smith fired back that if Fulton Countians hadn't been satisfied with him in the legislature that they would have voted him out of office several years ago.

Man, 75, Plans Water-Ski Trip

BEAUFORT, S.C., (AP)—A 75-year-old Beaufort surveyor plans to water ski the 40 miles from here to Savannah Saturday. Furthermore, he'll use but one ski.

He is Arthur O. Christensen, for many years an avid water sports fan.

Christensen said he will be accompanied by his grandson, 15-year-old Arthur Baltz of Greenville. The boy's father, A. H. Baltz, will pilot the boat.

The trio plans to leave from in front of the municipal parking lot on Bay Street here at noon. They hope to arrive in Savannah in time for the water ski events scheduled in Thunderbolt at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Guental Takes Pulpit

Mrs. Carol Marie Guental is the new minister of the Unity Church of Christianity.

Mrs. Guental was formerly a resident faculty member of the ministerial training program of the denomination at Lee's Summit, Mo.

She succeeds the Rev. Wendell Mixson, who recently left to assume a pastorate in California.

Youth Is Told To Give God an Opportunity

QUESTION: Almost all of my family and acquaintances are Christians. They keep telling me to read the Bible and find out how to live the Christian life. Honestly, I get bored when I sit down to read it and when I try to pray I keep thinking of a thousand other things. Is there something wrong with me?—M. P.

ANSWER: I don't think there is anything wrong with you that is not typical of most young people. Having grown up in a religious atmosphere, you are right now passing through a period of revolt. You want to be on your own and make your own decisions.

There is another fact you should know. One of the devil's methods is to attack everyone, old and young, in this matter.

If you would stop for a moment and think as a mature person, you would realize that your parents are trying to get you to do what is for your good. Don't rebel, but give God the opportunity to change your life and help you over the problems of youth, for they are many. Solomon once said, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and this is what you should do to find the greatest joy.

4 Churches Plan Classes For Children

Several Atlanta churches are sponsoring kindergartens and grade schools this year.

Classes at the Grace Christian Grade School, sponsored by the Grace Lutheran Church, opened its fourth year of classes Thursday.

The school will have classes for kindergarten through seventh-grade youngsters.

Northside Methodist Church will offer nursery and kindergarten classes for four and five-year-olds. Classes begin Tuesday. Mrs. William C. Horton is director of the interdenominational school.

The Christian Kindergarten of the Peachtree Road Evangelical Church will open for its third year Tuesday. Mrs. A. T. Enge is the teacher.

The Hapeville First Baptist Church will also hold classes for pre-school age children beginning Tuesday. Mrs. C. C. Martin is director.

Baptist Women Of State Plan Day of Prayer

Georgia Baptist women will observe their annual State Mission Emphasis and Day of Prayer on Sept. 18, Miss Janice Singleton, Atlanta, Women's Missionary Union executive secretary, announced Friday.

In most of the 1,800 Baptist churches in Georgia where there are missionary societies, missions programs will be held on that day.

A special offering for missions will also be taken. All of this offering in excess of $90,000 will be used to build a student center fund for improving Baptist student centers at state institutions.

These of the programs this year will be "You Are There."

Aikman To Address Christmas Sealers

Leo Aikman, Atlanta Constitution editorial associate, will deliver the principal address at the Christmas Seal Sale luncheon in Savannah Sept. 10.

The luncheon is part of the 45th annual meeting of the Georgia Tuberculosis Assn., the Georgia Trudeau Society and the Georgia Conference of TB Workers.

Others taking part in the two-day meeting will be Sen. Herman Talmadge, Dr. Floyd Feldmann, medical director of the National Tuberculosis Assn., and Mrs. Louise Cady of the Alabama Department of Public Health.

2 Bishops To Preach To Preachers

Two Bishops, an author-professor and a jurisdictional executive will address the annual Georgia Methodist Pastor's School next week at Wesleyan College, Macon.

They are Bishops Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta and Donald Tippett of San Francisco; Dr. Harold DeWolf, professor of theology in Boston's School of Theology, and Dr. D. Trigg James, executive secretary of the Southeastern Jurisdictional Council, Atlanta.

Bishop Moore will preach on three mornings during the Monday through Friday school and Bishop Tippett will preach at the evening services.

The pastors' school is sponsored by the Boards of Ministerial Training and Qualifications, Missions, Education and Evangelism of the North and South Georgia Methodist Conference and the Department of In-Service Training of the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Charles A. Jackson, Brunswick, is dean of the school.

Gospel Meeting

Evangelist B. C. Goodpasture, former minister of the West End and Druid Hills Churches of Christ in Atlanta, will lead a gospel meeting at the West Rome Church of Christ beginning this Sunday.

Grand Jury Urges 1-Mill Tax Increase To Help Finance Atlanta Urban Renewal

The July-August Fulton County Grand Jury Friday urged a one-mill increase to the city's tax rate to help finance urban renewal.

In a three-page section of their presentments, devoted to the federal-city urban renewal program, the grand jurors pointed out that the additional revenue "would mean the setting aside of approximately 1/30 of the city's income for .. . depreciation."

"That seems to us only good business," they added.

The addition to the tax rate would mean an increased annual revenue of approximately $900,000. That figure would be available "for matching by twice that amount of federal funds," the grand jury said.

"Two million, seven hundred thousand dollars each year would go far to preserve Atlanta's income-producing capital."

Under urban renewal, the federal government puts up $2 for every $1 in city funds and work contributions toward the program.

The grand jury action parallels a recommendation made at a reorganizational meeting this week of the Atlanta Citizens Advisory Committee on Urban Renewal by the group's chairman, architect Cecil Alexander.

The basic problems underlie the entire struggle to implement urban renewal as a check against creeping blight, the grand jury said:

"1. The constantly increasing question of where the Negro population is going to live.

"2. The question of how the City of Atlanta can provide funds to finance its share of the total cost of urban renewal on a continuing basis."

The grand jurors said the 90-member Citizens Advisory Committee is the "best instrument through which a solution (to the first problem) satisfactory to all affected persons can be obtained."

As for financing, the jurors pointed out that a 1957 bond vote set up $1½ million for urban renewal.

"While this was good for a starter, we question whether bond issues are the proper route to a long-range solution of the problem," they said.

Like most cities, they continued, the city of Atlanta gets a substantial amount of its income through ad valorem property taxes. The amount varies directly with the value of the property taxed. Slums and blight slash into property values, and therefore city income.

On the other hand, "the renewal or prevention of slums and blight increases or guarantees the level of municipal income."

"It should be kept in mind," they concluded, "that money spent for urban renewal brings in twice that amount of federal funds for the improvement of the city, and in addition, money spent for urban renewal is one of the few expenditures available to the city which produces additional revenue."

IN ATLANTA CHURCHES: Rev. Watson Retiring After 21 Years

The Rev. Gordon R. Watson will retire Sunday as pastor of the Riverside Church of God, which he established 21 years ago.

Rev. Watson

The minister and his wife have served the church since the first meetings were held in a tent in the summer of 1937.

In the early days of his work, the Rev. Mr. Watson worked at a full-time job and donated his income to the building of a church.

Today the church has a membership of more than 400 active members and is housed in an $85,000 building.

During his work here, the minister has helped establish 12 other congregations in Atlanta and 40 young men from his church have entered the ministry.

His wife has taught the Disciples' Sunday School Class for 21 years. She also organized a Soul Winner's Band and held daily prayer meeting at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Watson is the District Overseer of the Church of God in the West Atlanta area and is a member of the Church of God State Board of Trustees and State Council.

A special program has been planned at the church Sunday morning to honor the retiring minister and his wife. He will preach his farewell sermon at the evening service. The Watsons will continue to live in Atlanta after retirement.

Jenkins To Speak

Atlanta Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins will speak at the Sunday, Sept. 21, meeting of the Atlanta Baptist Association Sunday school.

Chief Jenkins will speak on "Juvenile Delinquency in Atlanta." Dr. O. Norman Shands, pastor of West End Baptist Church, is superintendent of the associational Sunday school.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. at First Baptist Church.

Truth Center to Move

The Threefold Truth Center will move into a new building next week. A dedication service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The new building is located at 1182 West Peachtree St., NE. Classes and midweek services will be held there, while Sunday services will still be held at the Peachtree Art Theater.

Visiting Presbyterian

The Rev. James Doom, associate secretary of the church architecture department of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., will speak at the 11 a.m. Sunday service of the Gordon Street Presbyterian Church.

Catholic Women

Mrs. L. N. Chappell will head a delegation of Atlanta Catholic women at the National Council of Catholic Women's 24th biennial convention next month in St. Louis.

Mrs. Chappell, president of the Atlanta Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, and some 26 other women, are scheduled to attend the convention.

Some 3,500 official delegates are expected at the Sept. 20-24 meeting.

Peachtree Lutheran

Two series of catechetical classes will be held at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. Saturdays beginning next week at the Peachtree Road Lutheran Church. The pastor, the Rev. Paul Renz, will teach both classes.

Missionary To Speak

Dr. L. C. Vass, retired Presbyterian missionary to Africa, will speak at a 2:30 p.m. Tuesday meeting of the Decatur Civitan Club at the Candler Hotel.

Radio Speaker

The Rev. Earl P. Paulk Jr., pastor of the Hemphill Avenue Church of God, has been selected as the speaker on a new series of radio programs sponsored by the denomination.

Rev. Paulk

The minister was named by the Supreme Council of the Church of God at a recent meeting in Memphis.

The venture into radio will be the church's first attempt to spread its message by mass communications media.

The plan calls for starting with recorded sermons on key stations in the South and then expanding to network proportions.

The Rev. Mr. Paulk will continue as pastor of the local church, which he has served for the past six years.

Primitive Baptist

The Atlanta Primitive Baptist Church is building a new $150,000 sanctuary and education building at 1367 Ponce de Leon Ave., NE.

The church has held services at 766 Boulevard, NE, for the past 40 years. While the building is being completed, the congregation will meet in the Bishops' Hall at Emory. The new building is scheduled for completion on Thanksgiving Day.

Columbia Post

The Rev. Roy E. Beckham, who has served as pastor of the Vidette Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church for four years, has resigned to accept a call to the Centennial ARP Church in Columbia, S.C.

Three for the Book

Some colleges change football coaches almost as often as the French substitute premiers. The coach either has a losing season and gets the boot, or uses a successful campaign as a springboard to greener pastures.

With coaches flitting around like gypsies each fall, it's refreshing to note that three men in our section have remained on the same campuses for a combined total of 74 years.

Outlar

The late Bill Alexander plucked Bobby Dodd off the Tennessee campus in 1931. Dodd is now starting his 28th season at the Flats. The same year that Dodd checked in at Tech, Jess Neely hired a city slicker named Frank Howard at Clemson. Nationally famous now at the Country Squire, Howard doesn't like to be reminded that he was once a dashing don in a tuxedo.

In 1939 a high school coach who had lost only 10 games in as many years joined Joel Hunt's staff at Georgia. Wallace Butts is now beginning his 21st campaign in the Classic City, his 20th as a head coach.

Butts holds the longevity record among active mentors from a standpoint of continuous service as a head coach at the same site. Howard and Neely are runners-up with 18 years in the log.

Other institutions could take a cue from the two Peach State schools and Clemson. Get the man you want and keep him. The colleges have backed the coaches during losing seasons, and the three men have rejected countless bids from other colleges.

—For the Record, 323 Wins, 21 Bowls

Tech, in particular, has a fabulous record for supplying security for its coaches. John Heisman, the first official Jacket boss, remained at the Flats for 16 years. Coach Alex ruled with a stern hand for 25 years, including eight straight losing seasons. And, of course, Dodd is beginning his 14th year as the head man. Fifty-four years of football and only three head coaches, a record unparalleled in college football.

There is no official certification but Butts and Dodd probably have been on the payroll longer than any two coaches in the same state. They've served a total of 47 years.

Butts, Dodd and Howard have a combined record of 323-172-24. They have produced 21 bowl teams. All three are listed in college football's top 20 winners.

Dodd ranks second only to Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson on a percentage basis. His Jackets have sacked 105 victories, lost only 32, tied five. Butts' Bulldogs have won 120 games, dropped 75 and tied nine. Howard needs two more triumphs to hit the century mark. His Tigers have lost 65, tied 10. To balance the budget, Georgia and Clemson have played over half of their games on foreign fields.

The three gentlemen have enjoyed virtually every honor college football has to bestow. Dodd has recorded a perfect bowl record which isn't likely to be fractured. During his 13-year regime as head coach, Tech has sat on the winning bench in eight bowl games. The Jackets spent six straight holiday seasons on the bowl battlefront. Georgia has played in seven bowls, two more than Clemson.

These coaches rank at the top of their profession on and off the field. They are in constant demand at clinics, and they can't possibly fill all the banquet invitations.

—Seventy-four Years on the Same Campuses

If Howard wasn't devoted to football, he probably would be a TV star. Few men are more humorous than the Baron from Barlow Bend. He wowed 'em in Europe this summer while conducting an Army-sponsored clinic. Dodd also glows in front of a camera, and Butts is tops in the banquet league.

All three gentlemen will add interesting chapters to their memoirs this season. With a corps of battle-tested vets, Georgia could enjoy its finest season in a decade. The Bulldogs won only three games last year but staged a whirlwind finish, almost upsetting Auburn before downing Tech for the first time in nine years.

Rebounding from a 4-4-2 year, Tech has the backfield weapons to shoot down the best in the conference. If the troops mature in the line, the Jackets will have plenty of sting.

Reports from Clemson are very bright. The Tigers just may have the best quarterback in college football in Harvey White. And Howard just may have the best team in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Howard offers a more colorful analysis. "We could be enjoying a bowl game somewhere Jan. 1," Howard says, "or we could be back home looking at 10 football films and wondering wot hoppened."

Regardless of what happens this fall, Butts, Dodd and Howard are monuments to their profession. They've been in business a long time, and it will be a long time before you find three neighboring coaches with a combined total of 74 years on the same campuses.

ST. PAUL SPEEDS UP

Nats Shelve Shift Talk, and Minneapolis Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators ducked the big question Friday and wouldn't say whether they plan to sit tight or stake out new territory.

Directors of the American League club did not even take up the possibility of moving to Minneapolis, according to a statement issued after nearly two hours behind closed doors.

Although postponed, their decision may come shortly.

As the team's governing board met here, the city council in Minneapolis disposed of the last major obstacle to extending the Senators a formal invitation to locate there.

Minneapolis aldermen approved a nine million-dollar bond issue to enlarge the city's stadium from 21,000 to 41,000 capacity.

Neighboring St. Paul made its pitch at the same time, voting to borrow whatever is necessary to expand its stadium from 10,250 to 42,000 if a big league team agrees to operate there.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, said he had been notified of the Minneapolis action after his board meeting adjourned. Griffith also was advised Minneapolis authorities would submit very shortly an itemized proposal covering attendance guarantees, stadium rent, concessions and other vital considerations.

Griffith said last week he was satisfied with a previous Minneapolis offer to pledge one million admissions in each of the first three years.

Washington directors evidently deferred the matter for lack of a detailed offer to study.

"No vote was taken, no action was taken and there was no discussion of moving the franchise," a spokesman said.

The board spent its time reviewing club finances "in relation to other major league teams," he said. Although consistently in the black, corporate profits for the last place club reportedly have been small in recent years because of failing attendance. Paltry gate receipts have caused the directors to survey the possibilities elsewhere.

Griffith said Minneapolis was mentioned only in connection with proposals for strengthening the minor leagues. In that respect, the directors also discussed the future of their farm teams at Chattanooga and Charlotte.

Griffith would not detail these talks, other than to say both the Southern Assn. and South Atlantic Leagues are shaky.

Listening In, Board Members Thelma Haynes (L), Calvin Griffith, Eugene Young

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minneapolis' high-riding hopes of landing a major league baseball franchise got an unforeseen jolt Friday when a city board deferred action on a nine million dollar bond issue.

Earlier Friday, St. Paul made its own bid to bring in a big league franchise. St. Paul councilmen approved a resolution pledging to issue enough revenue bonds to enlarge the present Midway Stadium from 10,250 seats to 42,000 in the event a major league team signs a contract to come to the city.

The board of estimates and taxation postponed a vote on the plan in the face of pleas by baseball promoters that even a weekend delay might cost the city a franchise. Minneapolis is after the Washington Senators.

The city-backed bond proposal, designed to expand Metropolitan Stadium from a 21,000 to 41,000 seating capacity, earlier in the day won 11-2 approval by the city council.

It was expected to have clear sailing through the taxation board, the agency which has to make final authorization.

But three of the seven-member board, Mrs. Samuel Gale, president Walter Johnson and A. G. Mathews, said they wanted more time to consider the bond plan.

A motion to have the bond proposal approved was withdrawn and another meeting was set for Tuesday. Five votes are needed for passage.

Chet Roan, a member of the Metropolitan Area Sports Commission, pleaded with the board to vote. He said an invitation from a major league team could easily come over the weekend.

"It would be terribly embarrassing to us if the city can't say it's ready," Roan said.

News of Friday's council approval was promptly sent to Washington president Calvin Griffith and other board directors on the assumption that the taxation agency would give its okay.

The baseball promotion feud between the cities had been dormant for a couple of years and St. Paul seemed ready to stand aside while Minneapolis made its big push.

St. Paul negotiators declared that action of the St. Paul council was not designed to embarrass the city's bigger neighbor across the Mississippi River but was a serious move.

Cleveland and "another American League club" were mentioned by spokesmen as possible franchise shifters to St. Paul.

Ramos Hurls Blank At Yanks

Nats Win, 3-0, On 6-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pedro Ramos, after failing to finish his five last previous starts, shut out the New York Yankees on a six-hitter for the last-place Washington Senators, 3-0, Friday night.

A crowd of 15,414 saw the 23-year-old Cuban right-hander hold the league-leading Yankees to two hits over the last seven innings.

It was the 12th victory of the season for Ramos, equalling his totals for 1957 and '56. Striking out seven, including Mickey Mantle twice, Ramos hung up his third shutout of the campaign. The Yankees were being blanked for the eighth time.

Whitey Ford was the New York starter but had to quit after pitching to two batters because of an aggravation of his left elbow, an injury which has recurred several times during recent seasons.

Pirates Stop Braves, 3-2, To Shave Lead

Stuart, Skinner Smack Homers

Friend First To Win 18

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The pressing Pittsburgh Pirates chopped a game off the Milwaukee Braves' National League lead Friday night with a 3-2 victory formed on homers by Dick Stuart and Bob Skinner and the clutch relief pitching of Don Gross.

The triumph in the opener of a three-game series lifted the second-place Pirates to within 6½ games of the defending champions and made right-hander Bob Friend the league's winningest pitcher with 18 victories, even though he needed help in the ninth after Ed Mathews homered for Milwaukee.

In gaining the decision, Friend bested Milwaukee's Warren Spahn who was also seeking his 18th victory. Instead the Braves' left-hander took his 10th loss. Friend has 13 defeats.

Friend now has a 4-1 record for the season against the Braves. Spahn, who gave up eight hits, is 2-2 against the Pirates this year. The statistical edge went to Spahn who fanned seven and walked two.

Friend gave up eight hits, posted three strikeouts and passed one before leaving in the ninth with none out.

Stuart got Friend and the Pirates off to a lead they never lost when he hit his 14th home run over the left field fence in the first inning.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Bitsy Grant of Atlanta opened defense of his National Seniors tennis title Friday with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Fred Steiber.

Meanwhile, a pair of young Atlantans were winning and losing in the Nationals' men singles. Tulane tennis ace Crawford Henry dusted off Gerald Moss of Miami, Fla., 6-0, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1. But Ned Neely fell before Argentine Enrique Morea, 8-6, 6-0, 6-0.

Panko's Homer Chokes Crax, And Hartman Fails Again, 4-3

Vol's 10th Inning Wallop Stops Bob in Try for 20th

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

NASHVILLE—A little plot of red earth in the Sulphur Dell infield, where Bob Hartman realized his most memorable pitching moments, was "Heartbreak Hill" for the Cracker southpaw Friday night.

Seeking for the third time to become the first 20-game winner in the Southern Association, the lad who beat diabetes and six other league teams before May 26 saw his dream sail over the left-field fence in the tenth inning.

Emil Panko, a veteran right-handed slugger of note, led off the Vol tenth by smiting the 350-foot blow to untie a knot and give the Vols 4-3 first blood in the series opener. As irony would have it, the home run was number 13 for Panko—lucky for him, unlucky for Hartman.

The Kenosha blaze baller, whose first league victory here was a shutout of the Vols on opening day of 1957, had his coveted 20th decision made until Buddy Gilbert's 27th circuit smash, a "Chinese" job over the close-in screen in right, knotted the count with two men out in the eighth.

This was catastrophe for no one except Hartman and his mates, because the second place Crackers' chances for an unprecedented third straight flag already had gone down the drain in a deluge of base hits in Birmingham.

But Hartman, plagued by boils and arm trouble since compiling a sensational 15-2 won-lost chart by June 20, dearly wanted to give himself a belated birthday present with a Dell victory. His 21st birthday was last Thursday.

As it was, he rolled in with a seven-hitter, struck out eight and walked only five. But that was small consolation for a fellow who rode into the eighth with a three-hit stint and a 3-0 lead.

It was just that the Crackers, escaping from an epidemic of pennant fever in Birmingham,

THE MUMBLER SPEAKS UP

Sobel Pulls Cover Off Atlanta Boxing

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Sam Sobel, mumbling matchmaker who parted company recently with the Peach State Athletic Club, has just begun to fight.

The fight game veteran, who pushed Atlantan Ben Brown into national pugilistic prominence many calendar girls ago, isn't out of the boxing business. As he said Friday night, "I'm just really getting started."

Before flipping the pages on his future book, Sobel laid bare the reason for his departure several weeks ago from the organization that is headed by wrestling promoters Paul Jones and Don McIntyre. McIntyre replaced Sobel as matchmaker.

"McIntyre pulled the purse strings," said the man who was nicknamed The Mumbler by the late Damon Runyan. "And he didn't want to pay nothing.

"They give me $40 a week, and I'm supposed to get one-third the profits. Well, they tell me there ain't no profits, so I figured I'd better be moving along.

"And they sent me to New York City to line up some fights. You know how much money this McIntyre gave me? . . . $125, that's all, and that includes transportation and everything.

The Mumbler wasn't mumbling any more. He was speaking loud and clear.

"Another thing. I wasn't fired. Paul Jones and I parted on good terms. We both agreed that we wuzn't doing the other one no good.

MUMBLING SAM SOBEL ISSUES VERBAL BLAST

Matchmaker Peeks Under Apron of Atlanta's Boxing Ring

"But don't get me wrong. I consider Paul Jones a perfect gentleman. But this McIntyre is different.

"Take this guy Charlie Joseph he's bringing in here Sept. 22. Well, he's selling the public a real stiff. Joseph fought George Benton Tuesday night in New Orleans and got booed out of the ring.

"The guy wouldn't fight. He backpedaled all the way. The public ain't gonna' go for anything like that. You gotta' give 'em action. But what's McIntyre giving them? He's giving 'em a dead fighter in this guy Joseph.

(The Associated Press reported: NEW ORLEANS — George Benton chased Charlie Joseph around the ring for 10 rounds Tuesday night to win a unanimous decision. Joseph back-pedaled from the opening gong, despite urges from Benton to mix it up.)

"Take this guy Davey Dupas he's bringing in Sept. 8 to fight Persley (Arthur). Well, I had that match all lined up. But Dupas gets knocked out in the seventh round by Ludwig Lightburn July 14, so I called it off.

"See, the whole thing in this matchmaking is ya' gotta have connections. This guy McIntyre don't know nothing. He's a wrestler and don't care nothing about boxing. He tried to sell back to Jones his shares in that club of theirs, but Jones would not buy 'em."

Sobel pulled a crumpled telegram from his pocket.

"Look at this," he continued. "It's a telegram from Lou Viscusi (manager of world lightweight champion Joe Brown)."

The telegram promised Sobel that Brown would fight for him in Atlanta this fall, but would not fight for any other party.

"I'm gonna bring him in here, and I'm also gonna bring such guys as Sugar Ray Robinson and Willie Pastrano in here," Sobel said. "And you know something, McIntyre can't touch none of these guys. Like I said, ya' gotta have connections. And I've been in this business all my life."

Sobel said he wasn't at liberty to reveal the people that were backing him. But he said "they have very good connections," intimating sponsorship by the International Boxing Club.

"All these guys (Jones and McIntyre) are trying to do is freeze out of Atlanta people who are really interested in bringing boxing back," he said. "But they ain't got no stranglehold on this place, and I'm coming in."

Immediate concern, however, of Sobel is securing TelePrompTer contracts in Macon and Columbus in conjunction with an attempt to revive the fight game in those cities also.

Bob Figures Brother Tim Is Due for Lakewood Win

By AL THOMY

It's the Flock brothers against the field at Lakewood Sunday afternoon, and the Flocks figure the field's best chance is for second place.

Timothy sits behind the wheel and brother Bob doctors the big Mercury for the split 250-mile run, headline stocks but featuring sports models for the first time.

Machines remain the important part of any race, but driving ability is a necessity on a track as difficult as Lakewood. And the Flocks practically grew up on the oval.

"It's hard to figure," Bob was saying Friday. "Our car is heavy, certainly heavier than the streamlined models they're putting on the tracks these days . . . and yet it has been outstanding.

"We've led every race we've been in since Daytona. Always some minor things pops up, a little breakage here or there. This, of course, can be traced to the size of the machine. That's the reason they're going for the lighter models at Indianapolis.

"I honestly believe Tim will run off and leave those guys Sunday. Only one man has actually outrun us there . . . Fireball Roberts. I'll say right here I believe Fireball's mechanic, Paul McDuffie, is the best in the country."

Bob is not ignoring caliber of the opposition, which includes Indianapolis veterans Dick Rathmann, Ed Elisian, Troy Ruttman and MARC favorite Iggy Katona.

"Let's not fool ourselves. Those Indianapolis boys know the ropes, and they'll find the fastest way around in about 20 laps. But I'm hoping by that time ole Tim will have come back and passed 'em."

Mechanic Flock laughed. "I'll tell you one thing. If Tim ain't leading by a lap after 125 laps, I'll get in it and drive it myself and get a two-lap lead."

That's real confidence . . . the kind the Flocks have.

They picked up more local opposition on Friday when Roscoe Thompson changed his mind about entering the Darlington 500 and posted his name at Lakewood. He's another who knows the short way around.

Gober Sosebee, away from the winner's circle recently, is another.

Trials begin at 1 p.m. with the real action starting at 2. Starting positions will be drawn from a hat for the first 125-mile segment, with the finish determining the lineup for the final 125 whirl.

Latest out-of-town entries are Paul Parks, Columbus, Ohio, '58 Studebaker; Tiny Shilte, Richmond, Ind., '57 Chevrolet; Stu Joyce, Richmond, Ind., '57 Ford; Scott Cain, Long Beach, Calif., '57 Ford; Al Swanson, Chicago, '57 Plymouth; Ken Reeder, McConlburg, Pa., '57 Chevrolet; Bob Vower, Columbus, Ohio, '58 Plymouth; Bill Coleman, Indianapolis, '57 Ford; Don Press, Indianapolis, '57 Ford.

Atlanta Ralph Smith is entered with a '56 Chevrolet.

Winner's share of the $10,000 prize list is $2,500.

Jordan Decisions Godih

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Don Jordan of Los Angeles ran his victory streak to four Friday night by decisively outpointing Lahouari Godih of France at Madison Square Garden. Jordan was awarded the unanimous decision. Jordan weighted 139¼, Godih 136½.

The 23-year - old Californian, making is eastern and national television debut, piled up a big lead with his crunching rights to the jaw but slowed down in the last few rounds.

Referee Art Mercante had Jordan in front seven rounds to one with two even. Judge Artie Aidala 7-3. The AP card has Jordan ahead, 6-4.

Jordan shook his 29-year-old rival in almost every round with those long rights that sneaked over and landed solidly on the French Algerian's jaw. But Don couldn't drop the game invader.

By the seventh round it was obvious to most of the crowd of about 2,000 that the only way the former French lightweight champion could win was by a knockout.

Daley Wages One-Man Campaign As Red Sox Trip Orioles, 5-2

BOSTON (AP)—Reserve catcher Pete Daley drove across four Boston runs that chased Baltimore jinxman Arnold Portocarrero Friday night and the Red Sox coasted to a 5-2 triumph.

With only 19 previous at bats to his credit this season, Daley smashed a three-run homer and a triple.

Relegated to third string Sox receiver behind Sammy White and Lou Berberet most of 1958, Daley tripled for Boston's first run in the third inning, hit his first homer in the fourth, scored a run and cut down a runner attempting to steal.

The one man campaign handed right - hander Porotcarrero his initial loss in six decisions with the Red Sox this season. He had permitted Boston only six runs in his five previous efforts.

Frank Sullivan went the distance for a nine-hitter and his 11th victory against seven setbacks.

Gus Triandos hit his 25th homer for the Orioles with two out in the ninth.

Lopez, Chiti Clout As KC Survives, 8-7

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City erased Minnie Minoso's first inning three run homer in its half of the stanza, rallying for four runs and keeping the edge for a 8-7 victory over Cleveland.

Randy Jackson also hit a home run for Cleveland. Hector Lopez hit a home run with Roger Maris on base in the fifth for the A's.

Minoso's homer came off starter Bob Grim but Harry Chiti's triple with the bases full nullified the three runs in the home half. Hal Smith's single scored Bill Tuttle to account for the fourth run off starter Hal Woodeshick.

TIMBER FOLKS HAVE OPENED FOREST TO HUNTER, ANGLER

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

The American Forest Products Industries, Inc., with headquarters in Washington and branch offices in several cities, including Atlanta, has made some outstanding contributions to forestry in America. One of their best known promotions is in Tree Farm program, which is nation-wide, and which has helped the small landowner to contribute his share to supplying industry's healthy appetite for wood and other tree products.

Charles Elliott

Since one of the chief criticisms against forestry as it seems to be practiced on all levels, is that it makes no provision for other resources—as wildlife—which are considered important to human needs, AFPI recently made a survey of three-fourths of the nation's commercial timber lands. This survey was for the purpose of determining to what extent the forest industries were fulfilling their obligations as stewards of our land, to allow a reasonable use of them for recreational purposes, which includes hunting and fishing.

The results of AFPI's survey, made public by Charlie Gillett, managing director, are so interesting that they are well worth passing on. They indicate that the people who are in the business of growing trees for lumber, pulpwood, poles and a hundred other requirements for the kind of living we have here in America, are also conscious of the other values important to human needs.

More than 92 per cent of all land owned by industries in this country are open to hunters in season, and 96 per cent is open to fishing. This adds up to a total of 42-45 million acres which have, in effect, the same status as our public lands, and help to provide places for Mr. Average-You-and-Me to enjoy our constitutional right to enjoy a gun (and a fishing pole).

The survey showed that 65 of the large companies who own a sizable chunk of our forest land have spent money to establish parks, to which the public is invited for picnicking, camping, swimming and fishing. The parks are equipped with picnic tables, trash and garbage pits, toilets, boat ramps, running water and in most cases, fire wood, which is furnished by the people who own the land.

It is encouraging to know that 31 of the companies employ game management specialists and fisheries experts whose sole job is to increase the game and fish supply for public use, and that this trend of hiring game and fish men to work with the foresters seems to be on the growing side. Many of the companies have built lakes—288 of them altogether—and others have stocked and otherwise improved their streams for fishing. More than 40 have planted food patches for their game species.

All this is tremendously encouraging to common folks like us who each year find more and more "No Hunting," "No Fishing" and "No Trespassing" signs guarding what we once considered as wild lands. These 40-odd million acres are scattered nation-wide and much of the property is right here in the South. Although more than one and one-half million people used these industrial forests for hunting, fishing and other recreation last year, Charlie Gillett says that there are still "relatively few people who know that a company's lands are open to the public."

At least one hat—mine—is off to those industrial forestland owners who are showing such a fine spirit of Americanism.

THE TOPSY-TURVY O'KEEFE BACKFIELD'S ALL SHOOK UP

Dan Kennerly Uses (Bottom, Clockwise) DuBose, Hunter, Honea, Prater at All Posts

'Kennerly Shuffle' Facing Irish Foes

O'Keefe Fans May Wonder Who's at End, Other Positions

By PAUL ATKINSON

If O'Keefe's Fighting Irish better their 4-4-1 record of 1957, it will be because football coach Dan Kennerly is quite skilled in the game of chess.

Every player on his reserve-shy 32-man squad can play at least three positions. And one—fullback Pete DuBose (185—knows and plays at every position.

For the starting lineup, which lists players by positions only because it's traditionally done that way, Kennerly named this outfit:

Ends—Bobby Duty (170) and Freddy Cochran (175). Tackles—Stan Strickland (200) and Paul Hosea (205). Guards—Ted (175) and brother Perry Bynum (175). Center—Doug Baker (215). Quarterback—Ralph Hunter (170). Halfbacks—David Honea (145) and Bob Prater (175). Fullback—DuBose.

"Now you're going to see some variations from that," Kennerly continued. "Because they all can play another spot. DuBose and Prater, for instance, will go a lot at guard both on defense and offense.

"And my brother guards Perry and Ted Bynum are likely to wind up at tackle; and Ted also knows the center plays. So if we make the right moves, we'll be in good shape to take up for the lack of reserves."

Kennerly was particularly anxious to talk about a pass-catch combo of Hunter and Duty. "Hunter's going to develop into a terrific quarterback," said Kennerly. "He was a halfback last season—may see some action there this time out, too—and is just learning the rudiments of quarterbacking. He's a good passer, fine runner.

"I'd call Duty one of the city's best pass-catching ends—without hesitation. He has good hands, and can get in the open."

Husky tackle Stan Strickland, a guard in '57, figures as the line bulwark.

Honea, the Golden Glover, has gained that little extra dash he needed in '57.

So that's the personnel list Kennerly'll use in the Thursday 3-AAA opener with Jack Fligg's Grady Grey Knights.

North Fulton Timber's Green, But... Watch Out for Woodall

Bulldogs Are Solid at Guard

Woody Woodall, the pass-pitch-ingest quarterback in recent North Fulton football history, had just had one of his good, good evenings. And Bulldog coach Frank Jernigan was feeling a little happier.

"You caught me at the wrong time," the often-pessimistic Jernigan said with a smile Friday night. "The kids looked mighty good—especially Woodall with his passing. I just hope they keep it up."

Then Jernigan, who rallied his North Fulton grid troops after a pair of opening game losses to a sparkling and often-exciting 6-2-2 report card, continued on Woodall, his favorite subject.

"This Woodall," he said, "is really what you look for in an exceptional T-quarterback . . . a fine passer and a good ball handler. I can't recall a better passing quarterback in 3-AAA. He puts 'em in just right for the receivers."

There, naturally, are supporting players in North Fulton's cast. Tentatively, the 178-pound quarterback will have these playmates: Ends—Bill Pelot (175) and David Hogg (200). Tackles—Matt Welch (200) at the right side; either Kurt Steinman (185) or George King (190) on the left. Guards—Bill Van Dyke (190) and Bill Dukes (180). Center—Jimmy Valentine (182). Halfbacks—David Truby (165) and Craig Nelson (160). Fullback—Bill Plunkett (180).

An astute 3-AAA grid addict will notice the absence of names such as halfbacks Tom Garden and John Houk, tackles Herb Nelson and Bob Long, gone because of graduation; fullback Tom Pirkle, decked with a leg operation; and center Jay McClellan, lost because he moved to Raleigh, N.C.

"That six—plus the loss of others," Jernigan began anew, "really hurt us."

"We have a fairly-experienced tackle in Welch, who has the ability to become one of the city's better linemen. But neither Steinman nor King has had much game action, and their greenness will hurt them—at least for a while.

"The guards are solid. We have good depth there, with seniors Van Dyke and Dukes leading the way.

"At fullback, we had hoped to have Pirkle, but his leg operation took him out. Plunkett is a good, hard runner; but his previous experience came on defense.

"Halfbacks Truby and Nelson played hardly at all last season. Truby is just a sophomore. That pair is following in the footsteps of a real good pair—Garden and Houk.

"Ends are capable. Both Pelot and Hogg are fine blockers, and Hogg is a good pass catcher. Center belongs to Valentine, a three-year player who may be just finding his real place."

His chances in 3-AAA East? "Let's say that we hope to be a contender," Jernigan concluded.

The opener, of course, is traditional rival Northside, defending AAA champion. That one comes off at Grady Stadium Friday night.—ATKINSON

GOLF NOTES

Here's How to Land A Job as Golf Pro

By BERT PRATHER

Savannah's Bud Fonts has a sure-fire formula for landing a job.

Bud, it seems, had been invited to Bogalusa (La.) Country Club to be interviewed by the club's brass. They were looking for a pro and Fonts had been recommended.

Bud Fonts

As is usual custom, the club's screening committee took Bud out for a round of golf. Club president Ray Brice was in the foursome.

Now Briese had a reputation as a bad hooker. And sure enough on the first tee, he let go with his usual "curve". Ol' Bud took one look at the prexy and knew he had it made.

While walking to the second tee, the cagey Fonts suggested a slight change in his stance. The second hole was a par three. And if you haven't guessed it by now, it really did happen, according to our Savannah agent, Jimmy Gleason of the Morning News.

Mr. Briese, employing the Fonts-suggested stance, made a hole-in-one. Fonts was hired on the spot.

Bud was formerly pro at Savannah's General Oglethorpe Club and later operated the municipal club there. He later went into another business and regained his amateur status, but the golf bug got him again and now he's back in the pro business.

Joe Todd and Aaron Wright will tangle at Johnny Suggs' Lithia Springs course Sunday for the annual Lockheed golf crown. Twelve flights were needed to accommodate this year's field.

Most disappointed entry was Paul Pleat, a first flight candidate. Paul and Denny Brown tied up in a first flight battle. Because the first tee was loaded, they started on No. 5, a three par hole. Pleat knocked a six iron in for an ace and figured the rest would be easy. It looked as if he had guessed right, for Denny knocked two out of bounds on the next hole and was two down after two. But the story changed after that. Brown won 3 and 2.

Maurice Tanner, the 23-year-old Quitman medical student, shot a four-under-par 33-35—68 Friday to take medalist honors and a first-round lead in the Jack Oliver Invitation tourney at Valdosta Country Club. Other results appear below.

FIRST ROUND LEADERS

Aaron Medalist, Dolly's Fourth

MONROE, La. (AP)—Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., turned in a par 70 Friday to win Medalist honors in the 10th annual Cotton States Invitational golf tournament.

Gene Dahlbender, twice winner of the Cotton States and runner-up last year to H. P. Childress, tied with three others at 72.

CRACKERS

ran into a plague of rally-minded Volunteers, who enjoyed knocking the Atlantans 7½ games off the pace of the flagsure Barons.

The Crackers picked on Vol starter Jim Bailey for a 3-0 lead by the time the sixth inning was history as a crowd of 921 paying clients—8,798 fewer than turned out in Birmingham the night before—looked on in semi-apathy.

A double high off the right-field screen by Ben Downs with two men out in the first was converted into the initial run when Mike Krsnich's wrong-field blue dart winged into right, a foot over the outstretched scoop of leaping Chuck Coles, for a two-baser.

Poochie Hartsfield's drag bunt-single promoted a two-run sixth that pyramided the Cracker lead to 3-0. Downs banged his second double off the screen—again narrowly missing a homer — and Poochie scurried home when Krsnich's infield blast knocked third baseman Witte Quintana down for a hit.

Downs and Krsnich trundled to third and second on Sammy Meeks' groundout, and Downs plowed a deep furrow at the plate barely ahead of the throw after Jim Fridley gloved Chuck Cottier's rainmaker.

Breaking out of a three-hit stupor, the Vols exploded for three extra-base blows to stalemate the issue in the eighth. Panko, who tormented Hartman for three safe knocks, doubled to left and chugalugged home on Eddie Irons' two-bagger off the convenient screen. Then came Gilbert's "Oriental" cheapie and the tie that Panko was to untie in the tenth.

Long Jim Umbricht (6-9) will attempt to keep the Vols' blows short of the short fence Saturday night.

Vols, Travelers Gaining On First-Division Looks

From Press Dispatches

The battle for a playoff spot in the Southern Assn. continued Friday night. Nashville gained a full game on fourth place Chattanooga by rapping Atlanta, and Little Rock picked up a half game by splitting a double-header.

Scores around the Assn. were these: League-leading Birmingham edged Chattanooga, 2-1, on Lou Limmer's 30th home run; the Vols of course, beat Atlanta: Mobile took the opener at Little Rock, 8-1, lost the second game, 7-4.

Jury Urges Crime Panel To Take In All Atlanta

The Fulton County Grand Jury recommended Friday that the scope of Atlanta's Crime Prevention Commission be enlarged to take in the Greater Atlanta area.

The jury, which devoted a section of its term-end presentments to local race relations, also said it feels "this commission should be free of politics and bi-racial."

The recommendation on enlarging the commission's scope said that after taking in the metropolitan area "as soon as practical," the commission later could take in the immediate adjoining areas.

It suggested that perhaps a committee from the Fulton Grand Jurors' Assn. and some other representative groups from each of the surrounding counties could meet with the Fulton group and discuss mutual problems.

Since the crime commission is a continuing body, the commission could work towards passage of laws which have been recommended repeatedly by past Fulton grand juries, the jury said.

Among these things it listed:

1. Setting the juvenile age limit at 15 years instead of 17; 2. The study and adoption of a curfew ordinance; 3. Letting a judge rather than a jury pass sentence after the jury finds a person guilty; 4. The need for a "habitual criminal" law in Georgia; 5. Letting a defendant testify under oath in criminal trials; 6. The need for a strict automobile title law in Georgia.

JURY TRAINING

7. The need for some plan to educate citizens for jury duty.

Regarding race relations, the jury commended "those leaders of both races who have, through alertness, wisdom and patience, eased racial tensions and kept friction to a minimum in our community."

The jury, which heard from a group of Negro leaders during its session, recommended that "more bi-racial conferences be held for the purpose of discussing common community problems."

The jury also:

1. Commended the study of Fulton County governmental accounting methods being carried on by the firm of Mount and Carter.

ON HOME RULE

2. Recommended that all property considered tax-exempt "be looked into" and all properties not qualified for exemption be levied on.

3. Called for accelerated work on a home rule bill for Atlanta.

4. Declared that local officials should "be ready to insist on our share" of federal and state funds for roads and schools.

5. Commended Sol. Gen. Paul Webbb and Special Prosecutor Paul Cadenhead for the way they are conducting the investigation of irregularities in state affairs.

Atlantan Feared Lost In Sea Gale

An Atlantan was among five men aboard a New Jersey-bound yacht believed to have gone down in the Atlantic Ocean in the fury of Hurricane Daisy.

Navy Fireman Carl E. Cotton, 24, of 1422 Blyss Ave., NW, who was stationed at the U.S. Naval station in Bermuda, was aboard the 47-foot yacht missing all week on a voyage from Bermuda to Brielle, N.J.

Cotton is an Atlanta native who lives with his sister, Mrs. Betty L. Atkinson at the Blyss avenue address. He attended Hoke Smith School, and enlisted in the Navy six years ago. He was stationed at the Green Cove Naval Station before his present assignment in Bermuda.

In Hamilton, Bermuda, names of those aboard, besides Cotton, were given as: Bosun Mate 3/c DeLain E. Barrett of Kermoor, Pa.; Ross Robinson, a machinist at the Naval station, and two Bermuda taxi drivers, Christopher Brimmer and Wilfred Woodley.

The Coast Guard said the pleasure craft might have been in the direct path of the storm, packing winds up to 100 miles an hour. Food and water supplies on the craft were believed low.

Police Grab Forest Park Ax-Wielder

An ax-swinging Jonesboro man who held officers at bay for more than half an hour was lodged in $1,000 bail at the Forest Park jail Friday night.

The man, Samuel Davis Gardner, 42, was charged with disorderly conduct-drunk, resisting arrest, and assault on an officer.

Patrolman J. C. Rowe said he stopped Gardner's truck at Ash street and Melrose drive in Forest Park Friday afternoon to question Gardner on a complaint that he had tried to cut a man with a knife.

Patrolman Rowe said that as he halted the truck, Gardner jumped out, grabbed a long-handled ax, and warned: "Don't come any closer." Rowe said he disregarded Gardner's warning and attempted to arrest him, but Gardner swung the ax at him to hold him off.

Rowe radioed for help. Patrolman B. W. Howard and Sgt. Robert Norton tackled Gardner, snatched the ax from his hand, and snapped handcuffs on him, police said.

NBC Offers '21' Affidavit Denying Rig

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the NBC television quiz show "21" Friday produced an 18-month-old statement by former contestant Herbert Stempel contradicting his recent charges the show was rigged.

Stempel, who won $49,000 when he appeared on the program as the "Human Univac" in 1956, told newspapers this week he was coached on the answers before he went on the air.

Stempel also has been quoted as saying he was told to miss a question which enabled Charles Van Doren to eliminate him. Van Doren went on to collect total prizes of $129,000.

In a statement signed March 7, 1957 and made public Friday, Stempel says he never had been given any answers before appearing on the show.

Daniel Enright, coproducer of the show, said Stempel made the written statement after the producers learned Stempel "had been making charges damaging to the integrity of Dan Enright and the '21' program."

Enright said he had given the statement to Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office along with other documents from the show's files. The producer said the statement "refutes the charges leveled against the '21' program" by Stempel.

State Education Funds Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Initial allotments states will receive under the new four-year, 900-million-dollar national defense education act were announced Friday.

President Eisenhower has not yet signed the recently passed legislation, but is expected to do so shortly. He has signed a separate bill which includes 40 million dollars to get the program started.

Under the program 295 million dollars would be allocated over the four years for students loans, 60 million for guidance and testing in the search for able students, 300 million in matching grants to states for science equipment and administration, 18 million dollars for research and experiment on new methods of teaching, 32 million dollars for language centers and 29 million for foreign language training institutes. Other programs account for the remainder.

Loans would be issued through institutes of higher education whose fund applications have been approved by the U.S. Commissioner of Education. Students will be able to borrow up to $1,000 a year, repayable at 3 per cent interest after finishing school.

The allocations contemplated under the initial 40-million-dollar appropriation total 35½ million dollars. Further allocations out of the remaining 4½ million may be made soon. Congress is expected to provide increasing sums in each of thet next three years.

Money set aside for the various states is expected to be available for release when the President signs the over-all authorization bill and the individual state departments of education submit programs to the U.S. Office of Education.

Connecticut $370,012, Maine $209,408, Massachusetts $923,090, New Hampshire $134,555, New Jersey $813,952, New York $2,717,878, Pennsylvania $2,112,124, Rhode Island $165,874, Vermont $108,112.

Illinois $1,592,115, Indiana $936,511, Iowa $647,005, Kansas $470,477, Michigan $1,477,958, Minnesota $778,871, Missouri $835,395, Nebraska $325,534, North Dakota $182,527, Ohio $1,668,793, South Dakota $188,096, Wisconsin $862,147.

Alabama $833,870, Arkansas $476,561, Delaware $79,694, Florida $695,220 , Georgia $947,182, Kentucky $797,851, Louisiana $823,576, Maryland $534,493, Mississippi 619,772, North Carolina $1,163,103, Oklahoma $563,160, South Carolina $640,145, Tennessee $876,379, Texas $2,076,522, Virginia $831,933, West Virginia $510,121, District of Columbia $163,075.

Arizona $257,816, California $2,174,697, Colorado $359,939, Idaho $166,915, Montana $154.427, Nevada $51,939, New Mexico $227,312, Oregon $363,580, Utah $240,839, Washington $524,765, Wyoming $79,720.

Alaska would get $17,274 for an area vocational education program and $1,347 for student loans under the initial allotment; Hawaii $17,843 for the vocational program and $14,465 for student loans. Puerto Rico would receive $94,210 for vocational education and $33,500 for student loans.

Use Care at Schools, Cherry Asks Drivers

DeKalb School Supt. Jim Cherry made a special appeal Friday to all county motorists to observe all safety precautions while traveling through school zones, especially during school hours.

Cherry said that due to the tremendous volume of traffic, he was making his special appeal to exercise due caution in order to protect the lives of DeKalb school children.

He pointed out that many new schools will be opening, and there is a possibility that motorists will be unfamiliar with their locations.

NATO Bid Fails To Solve Iceland Fishing Dispute

PARIS (AP)—NATO announced Friday that efforts to solve the Iceland fisheries dispute had broken down, but it was hoped talks would be resumed later.

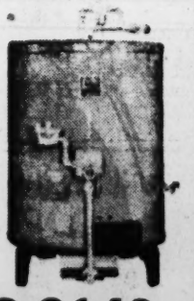

No date has been set for a resumption of talks, although Iceland's threat to extend its territorial waters to 12 nautical miles goes into effect Sunday midnight.

Britain plans to guard its fishing fleet in the area with gunboats unless an agreement is reached. Iceland's present territorial limit is four miles.

ATLANTA FATHER RECORDS DAUGHTER'S MEMORABLE 15TH BIRTHDAY, SHARED BY TELEVISION AUDIENCE

Millions Share Karen's Birthday

Pinning the Chamblee High School banner on the nation's best-known bulletin board was a highlight of an Atlanta girl's 15th birthday, a birthday shared with millions of teens all over the country.

Karen Dockray's proudest birthday gift in all her 15 years was a trip to Philadelphia to be a special guest on American Bandstand. The trip was Karen's birthday gift from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dockray, who were "almost as excited as Karen." (Indeed, they were "glued to the TV set" and Mr. Dockray used his talent with a camera to record the event, just as it was happening, and as Karen appeared on the screen.)

Karen participated in the spotlight dance, reserved for those observing birthdays; she was a member of the record review panel, and was personally welcomed to the show by popular emcee Dick Clark.

From Atlanta, Karen took with her a package of hushpuppy mix, which she presented to a "very surprised" Mr. Clark.

Karen became one of the gang at Pop Singer's Drug Store, haunt of Philly teens before and after Bandstand. In fact, Pop escorted the Atlantan to the studio.

"I entered the studio door not knowing what to do," Karen recalled. "Everyone was finding a seat, so I followed and the show began. There were dozens of huge lights overhead, which made a blinding glare. The actual studio was much smaller than I'd expected. Cameras were everywhere."

Karen said Dick was "very polite and made me feel completely at ease."

During the record review portion of the show, she continued, the young emcee told the reviewers to "praise the disc to the sky if we liked it, to run it down if we didn't like it—but, above all, to be honest."

"I liked all the records," Karen added with a smile.

Following the record reviews, the Atlantan related, Dick gave each panel member an Elvis Presley "dogtag" sweater clip and one of their favorite records.

"The time passed all too quickly," Karen said. "It was certainly a memorable occasion. I was very much impressed by the people at Bandstand (and especially Dick Clark), and by the way it was organized.

"I'll never forget my 15th birthday."

AMERICAN BANDSTAND "REGULARS" POSE FOR ATLANTAN

American Bandstand Tops Interest of Liberty Bell

Editor's Note: The following is an Atlanta teen-agers account of [redacted] visit to American Bandstand, a behind-the-scenes glimpse of young America's favorite TV program.

By MARY LOUISE BROWNE
North Fulton High School

Philadelphia has many points of interest, including the Liberty Bell, but the main point of interest, as far as most teenagers are concerned, is American Bandstand.

Numerous tourists join Philadelphia teens for daily visits to the dance party. A trip to the "City of Brotherly Love" to attend Bandstand was the highlight of my vacation trip.

We weren't familiar with the Philadelphia area, so we didn't allow ourselves enough time to reach the WFIL-TV studio before 2:30, when Bandstand goes on the air. Luckily, we'd made reservations more than a month in advance, 'cause the line of people hoping to get in was a long one, and their chances slim. The studio will admit only a certain number and if there is any room left after those who have reservations are admitted, the first ones in line join the fun. Teens stand in line for hours each day.

In the basement of the studio there is a large room, equipped with tables, chairs, soft drink machines and a TV set. This room is provided for the parents, and it was there Mother viewed the program.

'MORE HANDSOME'

Dick Clark is even more handsome in person than on TV. He has light brown hair, brown eyes and dresses very well. If possible, his magnetic charm and personality is much more evident off screen.

The teens who come to Bandstand every day are well known to most regular viewers. (A good illustration of this is when they line up during the break between 3:30 and 4:00 to receive their mail. A big corrugated box is brought in from the office and the letters and packages distributed by staff members. Usually, after looking over their mail and gifts, they put them in the back of the studio on racks provided for their personal belongings until after the show.

Arlene Sullivan is one of those regulars. She has dark hair and eyes, a small frame and a wonderful personality.

When the show ends at 5, most of the teens head to Pop Singer's Drug Store. (Pop often appears on the program to help celebrate someone's birthday—and he always furnishes the cake!). All the kids adore this kind man, and I felt privileged to meet him when I joined Arlene and some of the other regulars at his store.

FRIENDLY

Arlene, one of the most popular regulars, is a very friendly person and, although she couldn't stay long since she was waiting for a ride home with friends, she did tell me quite a lot about herself:

She receives around 300 letters a week, plus many gifts. The gifts usually are stuffed animals and dolls, but some are unique, such as the dress with the words "American Bandstand" printed all over it. One of her nicest gifts was a camera. Arlene said she tries to answer all the letters herself, but sometimes she has to get friends to help.

Arlene doesn't go steady, but she often dates another Bandstand regular, Kenny Rossi. Kenny and Arlene recently won first place in a Bandstand dance contest. They each won a foreign car. Arlene, like the rest of us, thinks Dick Clark is "really terrific—a wonderful guy."

After saying goodby to Arlene and Pop Singer, we went to the elevated train station, which is just overhead in front of the drug store. Many of the teens take the train home.

Being a part of American Bandstand—even for one day—was an exciting experience. I can hardly wait for next summer when we hope to go there again—but for a longer period of time.

Avoid the Nine Nautical Goofs For Smooth Sailing on Holidays

By DON GOODWIN

Would you believe it? A total of 360,000 goofs may be committed in boats this year.

What's more, a boner on the brine is riskier than its terra firma equivalent.

If manners are ever mandatory, therefore, it's while sharing the pleasures of someone's boat. Whether put-putting down a river or seafaring under sail, guests should avoid our Nine Nautical Goofs.

WRONG CLOTHES

1. Showing up in the wrong clothes.

If the boat is 60 feet long and has a crew, you're presumably among the rich and should dress to be idle with them. Hoyle for such posh paddling is exurbian cocktail party togs—tie, tweeds, maybe tailored shorts—or classic white flannels and blue coat.

Among the less-than-rich, idleness is the last thing you're in for, and your clothes should be, if not proletarian, at least practical. T shirts, open-necked shirts, knee-length shorts and slacks are all fine, provided they can take the inevitable dousings. Pros favor khaki, denim or the new vat dyed cottons which neither run nor fade and resist sun and spray like nobody's business.

Shoes? Soft soles for the deck's sake; treads for safety's sake.

GOOF No. 2 is failing to pitch in. It takes a heap of work to keep a boat up, and if you're not drafted for sail-furling or spit-and-polishing, volunteer.

CHIP IN

3. Failing to chip in. It takes a heap of money to keep a boat up, so at least offer to bring the beer or bait.

4. Disrespect to the captain. His vessel may be a rowboat, but he's still the master of it and responsible for your safety. His "suggestions" are orders, so obey them.

5. Disrespect to the boat. This includes strewing (everything has its place on a boat—put it there); defacing the deck with hard-soled shoes; dangling your towel on a spar; singeing a sail with a carelessly handled cigarette.

6. Falling overboard. This is the prime goof.

7. Ignoring traditions. One is that strangers never set foot on a boat until invited, and another is that the captain goes aboard first and leaves last.

8. Being a square. If you want the respect of mariners, learn their lingo. A boat is a she. Stairs are ladders; kitchens, galleys; etc.

9. Being an ingrate. Sunburn and aching muscles notwithstanding, you had a "wonderful" trip and if it was lengthy, you're expected to give a thank-you present. Something for the boat is dandy.

Local Lads Score With Hit Discs

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A trio of local lads whose stars are fast going into orbit in the musical horizon, continue to zoom with new releases that should become steady-spinners.

Joe South, who scored nationally with his version of "The Purple People Eater Meet the Witchdoctor," and is currently wowing audiences on a nationwide personal appearance tour, has another winner in a novelty taken from the headlines: "Texas Ain't the Biggest Anymore." (An Atlanta friend reports that Joe "just beat a posse to the Oklahoma border after introducing his new record in the Panhandle".) Joe has an interesting rockabilly here, spotlighted by unusual gimmicks. Flip tune, "One Fool to Another," gets warm, impressive treatment by Joe. Echo effects and nice chorus add to the shellac, and the disc is a promising coupling.

Two other Atlanta youths, Ray Stevens and Ric Carty, both gaining in popularity with each new release, offer promising bids for top tune charts.

WELCOME WAXING: Mr. Music, Mitch Miller, scores again with zingy novelty, "Bluebell," and a fine waxing of "It Seems Like Only Yesterday." . . . Darrell Glenn brightens the charts with "Mr. Moonlight," a good blend of rhythm and lyrics that should soar. . . . Rosemary Clooney bounces back toward Hitville with cute, catchy "The Loudenboomer Bird." . . . Sal Mineo turns in a good performance with pretty ballad, "Secret Doorway." . . . "No One But You" gets lush treatment by the Ames Brothers and the Hugo Winterhalter music men. . . . Diahann Carroll joins the ranks of winning warblers with her fine rendition of the title tune from the United Artists flick, "Big Country," and she gives flip ballad, "Guiding Light," expert handling.

Teen-Age Orbit Due To Faults Of Adult World

Many teen-agers feel that they are not living in a "world of their own," while others believe this to be true. Other teen-agers think that there are those in their number who DO exist in their own little orbit, but that this is brought about generally by faults in the adult world.

Most of the teens do not feel that rock 'n' roll, slang, and crushes on movie stars compose the entirety of the adolescent role, but rather, stand as only a part of the teen society.

Many suggest that understanding, guidance and love from adults, especially from parents, would lead to a better teen-age world.

Martha Ann Johnson, 17, Decatur, expressed the sentiments of the majority of Young Ideas letter writers.

I would like to thank you for giving teen-agers the chance to speak for themselves for a change. There are so many things that adults never seem to understand about us. It is about time that we had a chance to enlighten them on this subject.

It seems that some people have set up certain rules concerning teen-agers. I don't know who does this or why. I do know that they certainly have some wrong ideas about a lot of things. Let's examine a few of these so-called expert opinions.

"Teen-agers can't stand to be different." You get the impression that we are like so many sheep all doing the same things all the time. That is like saying all businessmen are alike because they all wear conservative business suits and work in air-conditioned offices. One thing is certain. None of us like to dress exactly like one another.

We aren't alike in our tastes in music either. . . . We don't live in a world of our own.

In short, we're just human beings. We're no strange breed living in a separate dream world. We're just ordinary people who will someday be taking over the job of making this world a better place. I think we'll do a pretty good job at it, too.

Elizabeth Dillard, 15, Arnoldsville, feels that some teen-agers do live in a world of their own.

Actually, it is my belief that some teen-agers do live in a world of their own . . . made up of favorite movie actors and actresses, rock 'n' roll music, secret crushes on high school heroes and beauty queens, and their own language . . . in complete oblivion of the surrounding world and its problems.

However, many of us feel like we owe it to the world to help others feel like they belong instead of being in oblivion of those who aren't in our own clique, be it large or small.

On the side with those who believe that teens definitely exist in a world of their own is Emily Anne Smith, 18, Atlanta.

This is one teen-ager who definitely thinks we live in a world all our own.

Rock 'n' roll, slang, crushes, etc., yes; but there's another side to our world; one you grown-ups fail too often to notice.

Our hopes and dreams don't run the shallow streams you imagine, but run a deep and wide river.

Bill Garland, 17, Jackson, and an active writer in Young Ideas previously, has contributed an original poem entitled "To Youth."

To youth, whose zeal is burning white,
Untarnished with defeat's dark hue;
To youth, who rushes straight through night
Unfrightened into day's clear view;
To youth, whose lofty thoughts and dreams
Revive forgotten hopes again;
To youth, unheld by time or space;
To youth, and hearts who bear that name.

'City Lights' Brighten Teen's Climb to Fame

By BETTY CARROLLTON

"City Lights" illuminated a path to the stars for a Georgia teen-ager.

Bill Anderson, a handsome Decatur youth with an engaging grin and winsome personality, is a disc jockey at radio station WJJH in Commerce. Last August, Bill took his guitar to the roof of his hotel home in an effort to escape the sultry summer heat of his room.

"I was just strumming and thinking," recalled the likeable 18-year-old, "and somehow got to comparing in my mind the lighs of the town below and the light of the stars above:

"'The world was dark and God made stars to brighten up the night. . . . Did the God who put the stars above make the City Lights?'"

Other words "just sort of fell into place" as Bill "tried to work a story around the idea of the two kinds of lights."

The first words in the story that occurred to Bill are now part of the second verse in a song he penned that has leaped to hit charts for, not one, but three top recording stars.

The Georgian sent the tune to a couple of big music publishers, but it was rejected. Undaunted, Bill, who had recorded a song ("that never did do much") under the TNT label, decided to try "City Lights" as a cover tune on another record, "No Song to Sing."

"My recording of 'City Lighs,' which is now lost in the cover records, was cut in November, but was not released until March," the youth explained.

"Mel Tillis of Columbia records heard 'No Song to Sing' when we both played the Georgia Jubilee," Bill continued, "and he recorded it."

Charlie Lamb of the Music Reporter magazine in Nashville, however, was responsible for bringing "City Lights" to the attention of Chet Atkins, high man on the totem pole of country and western hits of RCA Victor. Chet promptly got Dave Rich to record the song, and it was an immediate hit. Ray Price heard Dave's record of "City Lights" on his way to the golf course one afternoon, and recorded it for Columbia the following day. In a couple of weeks, Ray's version was high on hit lists.

And now, Don Rondo, who waxed the smash version of "White Silver Sands," has cut "City Lights" in a pop vein to round out the trio of hit discs.

Bill, a journalism student who hopes to turn his full attention to music upon graduation from college, began his musical career as a 7th grade student when he bought a $9 guitar. Although he took "six or seven" lessons, most of his guitar work is self-taught. He made his professional debut in the 10th grade, when a group of boys organized the Avondale Playboys. The group played for Atlanta dances, and soon had their own radio show on WBGE.

Graduation from Avondale High split up the combo, but Bill continued his career by forming another band in Athens where he attends college. After several months, Bill gave up his work with the band to become a deejay.

A well-rounded performer in his own right, the modest teen-ager is a favorite of Georgia Jubilee audiences, where he's appeared many times. Bill experienced "quite a thrill" at the show's first anniversary performance when both Dave Rich and Ray Price, appearing as guest stars, sang their versions of "City Lights."

While the success of his song, and the joy of having it recorded by three top singers, is a high point in his life, the Georgian's greatest thrill has been the organization of the Bill Anderson Fan Club in Atlanta. Headed by Sondra Caswell, 339 Deering Rd., NW, with Rhonda Massey as vice president, the club has gone all out in support of Bill.

A modest young man loaded with talent, Bill declared the girls are "wonderful, just wonderful."

Georgia Youth Can Win Press Trip to Michigan

Do you have ambitions for a career in the newspaper business? Do you think you have the necessary qualifications to be a successful newspaperman or newspaperwoman?

Here's the chance to prove it.

In conjunction with the Ford Motor Co., The Atlanta Constitution is sponsoring a contest to select the high school student who shows the greatest promise of becoming an able newspaperman or newspaperwoman.

The contest winner will receive an all-expense-paid trip to the annual national press preview of Ford cars at Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 2-3, during National Newspaper Week, and will participate in all activities of the teen-age press conference. While attending the preview, the student will have the same editorial freedom as newspaper staff members.

The youth who, at the conference, demonstrates the greatest journalistic potential will receive a four-year scholarship to the college of his or her choice. The national winner will be selected on the basis of his writing and reporting abilities, as demonstrated by the quality of stories he submits on the news conference, as well as by his scholastic average, his ch[illegible] of academic subjects, and his ext[illegible]urricular interests.

Last year, Don Thompson of Brown High School in Atlanta, represented The Constitution at the conference. Don's work at the preview won him an $800 college scholarship.

Any student with a genuine interest in journalism may enter this year's competition by submitting an essay to The Constitution.

The essay, of not more than 600 words, should be written on the subject, "What the daily newspaper means to high school students."

Entries must be typewritten on plain 8½x11 paper. The contestant's name, address, age, school and grade should appear in the left-hand corner of the first page of the essay. A separate sheet should be attached showing the contestant's curriculum and average grades for the past two years.

Address entries to Young Ideas Editor, Atlanta Constitution. Entries must be postmarked by midnight Tuesday, Sept. 16. Winners will be announced in The Constitution Saturday, Sept. 20.

Judges for the contest will be Constitution Editor Ralph McGill, Constitution columnist Celestine Sibley and Eugene Patterson, executive editor of the Journal-Constitution.

At the press preview and conference last year, teen-age boys and girls representing 140 newspapers throughout the United States filed stories which were published in their home town papers. Delegates to the conference will again be asked to write stories from Michigan.

Stripes Are Made For Chubby Girls

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI). It takes a little more time and money to find the right dress for a chubby girl but it can be done.

So says Lola Belle Green, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State University. She advised chubby girls to avoid horizontal cuts and sharp color contrasts between blouse and skirt. Instead, slenderize with stripes.

Girls Want To Know About Life

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

We are a group of teen-age girls who would like your opinion about some things we consider serious. First, we want to know what you think of a mother who does not tell her daughter the "facts of life." When we ask our mothers questions about these things, all they do is yell and tell us to get such ideas out of our heads.

When we girls are together somehow we usually get to talking about such things. We ask each other certain questions but we either come up with different answers or no answer at all. We want to have the right ideas about life and we're wondering if you think it would be all right to talk to a teacher whom we all like—if we could get up enough nerve.

Mrs. Ricker, there is just one more question we would like to ask you. Do you think it would be a good idea for high schools to have classes which would deal with the facts of life?

In answer to your first question—I believe parents should be willing to discuss the 'facts of life' and that youngsters should be answered in a straightforward, intelligent manner. Since every normal youngster has a natural curiosity and interest in this subject, what better place to learn the right answers than in the home?

I am sorry but I cannot advise you about talking to the teacher you mentioned. You see, too much depends on whether or not she is qualified to discuss the subject with you. However, I can tell you I thoroughly approve of the classes and study courses you mentioned. Many schools throughout the country already have such classes. They are usually referred to as Family Living or Family Life classes. They are not just concerned with biological facts, but cover many important phases of every-day life—family, and boy-girl relationships, dating, necking, petting, the dangers and results of promiscuity.

After receiving your letter, I talked to the Dean of Girls from one of our local high schools, since I knew they had Family Life classes. She told me they are very pleased with the results so far.

This lady suggested that if you want your school to have this type of course you should first form a committee of students who believe as you do. Arrange an appointment with your principal and talk to him as a committee expressing the views of many.

MAESTRO ALBERT COLEMAN CONDUCTS FINAL REHEARSAL FOR CONCERT

Musicians Ready for Closing Pops Performance Saturday Evening at Chastain Park Amphitheater

Last Pops Concert of '58 Will Be Staged Tonight

By YOLANDE GWIN

When the Pops Orchestra members strike up the band Saturday night for their final concert, there will be a few personal notes that should interest the audience.

For instance, there is pretty brunette Virginia Roufe who plays the violin. When she was a mere mite of girl living up in Virginia she appeared in her first recital playing "To a Wild Rose" on a half-size violin.

"Since I can remember I have wanted to own and play a violin," she said yesterday at her office at Georgia Tech—far from a musical salon or a concert hall. "When my parents gave me my violin, it was half-size and I had private lessons."

SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

Later when she attended public high school, she played in the school orchestra on a full-size instrument. The big event coincided with her 10th birthday.

"When I finished high school I went to the Florida State University, and later studied at the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N.Y.," she said. "I came to Atlanta seven years ago to play with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra. This is also my seventh year with the Pops Orchestra. Actually I have had no formal training."

Music, violin—that is, is her top interest, but like many who have to have the bread and butter for the topping of jam, she is a career girl. She is a technical typist at Georgia Tech.

WOODWIND INSTRUMENTS

Over in the section where the woodwind instruments are played, most everybody in the audience will recognize one of the "city fathers." He is Karl A. Bevins, who heads the traffic engineering department of the City of Atlanta.

Mr. Bevins is a clarinetist. His love of music, especially the clarinet, is his hobby. It all started when he was a little boy living in Wellman, Iowa, and when other boys were out playing baseball he was inside practicing on the piano. He was 8 years old and as he banged away he decided then and there that music was to be his hobby. He later switched to the clarinet.

At one of the recent concerts, two strangers started talking without benefit of an introduction.

"I wonder what that Mr. Bevins is really like. All I've ever heard about him has been about traffic," said one.

"Oh, he is very nice," said the other, keeping her identity very hush hush. "Instead of playing golf, or fishing, or reading mystery stories, he plays the clarinet for relaxation. He has an electric organ that he plays sometimes, too. He has quite a collection of music, especially the works of Mozart.

"If he has much time before a concert, like a couple of hours, he eats with his wife at their home on Laurel Forest Circle.

"What about his wife?" was the next inquiry.

"Oh, well, she sings a little, and sometimes the two of them have their own homemade concert, with him playing the clarinet as her accompanist. In fact they met when both were on a radio program, so both are very musically minded."

"How do you know so much about him?" was the next question.

"Well, I'm Mrs. Bevins and I've been his wife since 1944," was the answer.

Mrs. Frederick Peace Moves to California

Mrs. Frederick Peace is busy packing for a move to California. She leaves Wednesday with her daughter, Mrs. Reginald R. Kearton, and the latter's son, Allison Adams Jr., to drive across the continent to her new home at Los Altos, a suburb of Palo Alto.

The Keartons have been for the past year in California where Mr. Kearton was transferred as a vice president to Lockheed's missile division. During the time, Mrs. Peace has occupied their Pinecrest road home which has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Cannon.

THE RALPH RAGANS, their daughter, Mrs. Lee Morrison, and the latter's young sons, Lee and Ralph, have returned from St. Simons where they occupied the beach cottage of Mrs. Morrison's sister, Mrs. Allen Smith of Tampa.

THE ATLANTA YACHT CLUB'S Labor Day program will begin with a cocktail party at 6 o'clock this evening, to be followed by dinner and dancing. Both the championship regatta to determine the club's best skipper and the pram championship regatta to select the best skipper among the small fry will continue through Monday.

Dr. William L. Dobes is the club commodore, and Mr. and Mrs. King McCain compromise the entertainment committee.

MRS. ROBERT J. TAYLOR, who has been the guest of her son and daughter, the Vernon Kyles of W. Wesley road, while giving up her apartment at 1325 Peachtree St., will spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jones Sr. in Canton. She will return Tuesday to her home in Winter Park, Fla.

THE SECOND DAUGHTER born Aug. 14 at Piedmont Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Black has been named Pamela Eugenia. Mrs. Black is the former Betty House.

WITH SUMMER VACATIONS coming to an end with a thud after the Labor Day weekend, Atlantans are taking advantage of the holiday for one last fling. Heading for Hilton Head Island tomorrow are Mr. and Mrs. W. Douglas Knight who have taken a cottage at Sea Pines where they will entertain at a houseparty next week. Their guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Baldwin and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pittman.

ELLEN BOWDEN, daughter of the Henry Bowdens, will spend the holiday weekend with her relatives, the Lamar Johnsons of Thomson. Other Atlantans bound for the same place are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Frederick and the latter's sons and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bowden Dobbins and Hugh Dobbins. They will be guests at the lodge owned by Mrs. Frederick's father, Paul Bowden of Thomson.

BECAUSE SHE LEAVES soon to enter Georgian Court College, Lakewood, N.J., Rita Weisiger was honor guest at a surprise party given Thursday evening by a group of her close friends. Rita, who is the daughter of the William P. Weisigers, was graduated in June from Christ the King High School.

MRS. J. HARVEY SEAT and her daughter, Jacquelin, of Dania, Fla., formerly of Atlanta, are back for a visit to their former next-door neighbors, Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Burrow of 109 Robin Hood Rd.

Joel Burrow, son of Dr. and Mrs. Burrow, will miss the Seats' visit for he is spending the weekend in Chattanooga where he was the guest for the Cotton Ball last evening of Miss Nancy Drake, daughter of the Carl Drakes.

DR. AND MRS. ALBERT A. CINELLI have arrived from New York for a visit to the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Byrnes; her sister, Mrs. Edwin H. Payne, and Mr. Payne.

Triumph Over Self In Dieting

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you have been burdened with excess fat practically all your married life, you may feel hopelessly stuck in a rut. Before you can make a start toward reducing, you have to have a glimmer of hope. This real life story in today's column may be just the spark you need to kindle that hope.

Last December, your dietitian was moved to dash off a note to a despairing young mother only 24 years old whose weight had climbed until she felt imprisoned by the fat. An excerpt from her first letter may recall this overweight to your mind: "You have no idea how many nights I cry myself to sleep . . . I try to keep myself hidden . . . I go nowhere."

Four months later, this dieter writes:

"You may have forgotten all about me by now. I'm the girl who weighed 123 pounds as a bride and then gained to 197 pounds at the time of my first letter to you, telling you I was going to reduce. Well, I didn't. In fact, I went up a few pounds.

"Then came a two-line note of encouragement from you, along with a diet. On the spur of the moment I went to my doctor and weighed in at 201 pounds. That was four months ago and believe it or not, I now weigh 158 pounds. You have no idea what this has done for me!

"Well, now it's a whole different story. Your protective diet and hit-the-spot exercises have been a wonderful help. But more important was your note expressing faith in me.

"I want you to know that my husband and I are happier now than at any time in the years since we've been married. Even the children seem happier for they feel the warmness. I want to get down to my normal weight of 125 to 130 pounds for five feet four inches. I don't care how long it takes, as these last four months have passed so quickly and happily, I'll report again a few months hence, just to let you know I'm on the course."

Local Husbands Don't Do Jobs Wives Have in Mind

By NANCY BUTTS

Atlanta women feel that some chores at home should be left strictly for their husbands, but they do them anyway.

Among those household jobs best left to the menfolk were listed repair work, yard work, and lifting heavy objects, yet most of the wives admit to having performed these chores occasionally and sometime, habitually.

Of course, there are the "strictly female" tasks also, with which many husbands assist. Dishwashing and drying live up to their reputation as the most frequently shared household chore but the cooking and household responsibilities are usually left for the wife.

If hubby wants to join in and help the missus', most of the wives offer no objection, but Mrs. W. Knox Culpepper, whose husband was former captain of the University of Georgia football squad, doesn't let her muscular male lend a helping hand at the sink.

"I never let my husband help with the dishes, though there are a few things I like for him to do around the house such as heavy moving and repair work," said the vivacious brunette.

Then there are the women who prefer leaving the cooking and sewing for someone else. Mrs. Joe Browder, 1441 Moresville Rd., NE, takes care of these departments but prefers lending a willing hand to her husband who is general manager of the Georgia Power Co. They built their home together.

"I don't believe that a woman should do any specific set of chores. I've mixed concrete, sanded floors and helped Joe with similar jobs. He has the brains. I have the brawn," said Mrs. Browder with a laugh.

Mrs. Virlyn B. Moore, talented wife of Judge Moore, feels the husband and wife should work as a team. If the female plans and is responsible for the beauty of the home, the male should at least comment and show an active interest.

At the same time, Mrs. Moore says housekeeping and meals should be left entirely to the female, while the male who has a talent for mechanics or gardening should handle these fields. If he hasn't the talent, he should still assume the responsibility.

Mrs. Arthur I. Butts, Blackland road, NW, thinks a husband should take care of the yard work, and if the wife wishes to help, well and good. There's just one thing the charming Atlanta housewife won't do.

"I refuse to cut the grass," she stated with conviction. "That is definitely a man's job."

Mrs. Butts handles one job around the home that many women are denied. She pays the bills, but only under her husband's supervision. This certainly adds up to teamwork, but at times the wife and husband might wind up on opposite sides.

It all goes to show that men and women do share the pants in the family, and maybe even the apron and broom.

Miss Betty Baker, Fiance Announce Wedding Plans

Bride-elect Betty Baker has chosen her sister, Mrs. M. Edward Hiles, as her matron of honor and only attendant at her marriage to Charles Brand Rolleston on Tuesday, Sept. 16. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, with Dr. Wilson Sneed officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Baker will entertain at a reception in the church reception room for their daughter and Mr. Rolleston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. B. Rolleston. Mr. Baker will give his daughter in marriage, and Jerry Cunningham of Panama City, Fla., will be flower girl.

Mr. Rolleston has chosen his father as his best man, and in the dual role of usher-groomsmen will be his brother, Patrick O. Rolleston, C. Wesley Leonard, Harold B. Parker, Freeman Strickland Jr., M. Edward Hiles and Larry Eubanks.

Miss Baker's cousins, Lea Mann and Barbara Stanton will keep the bride's book, and assisting in entertaining at the reception will be Delia Bridwell of Jesup, Anne Harrison of Nashville, Tenn., Marianna Reynolds, Evelyn Youngblood and Gail Harding.

After their return from their honeymoon at Sea Island, the bridal couple will be honored at open house by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wright, who will entertain Sept. 28 at their Spring Valley Road residence.

Daily Guide—The early hours after midnight sound a warning to be cautious and to slow down, then later in the day there is need to keep one's wits as confusion can creep in and cause mixups, wrong signals, daydreaming. If driving, be on the alert.

In the evening emotions are likely to take over, and some extravagance is to be expected. The moon is in Pisces, which indicates a variety of moods and changeableness.

Tomorrow the moon goes into Aries so the day promises to be more active. It is a day for group recreations rather than individual so plan to invite or be with large gatherings, and include both young and old.

Happy Birthday, Virgo! The longer cycles remain the same in the coming year, but Saturn will move on to another sign at the beginning of next year and thus remove some of the restrictions you may have been experiencing in domestic surroundings, home ties, or conditions concerned with older people. You will be able to move more smoothly into serious expression of your personal interests, and be well supported by old friends or a very practical person who comes into your social life. Take advantage of travel now if you can while Mars is favorably influencing mental expansion and studies or contracts with professional people.

Bell, 26, of 693 Capitol Ave., SW; Ralph Babington, 42, and Frank Babington, 18, both of 1280 Sells Ave., SW, and Joe Dixon, 37, of 1038 Central Ave., SW.

DRIVE-IN RESTAURANT

The action ignited at a drive-in restaurant on Pryor street, SW, where officers C. Black and L. A. Gary answered a complaint that Hamilton and the Gazaway woman were creating a disturbance.

When the officers walked up to the car in which the pair was seated, the man and woman assaulted them, police said. Officers Black and Gary quelled the man and woman and placed them in the police car to take them to jail.

CAR STOPS

A short distance away, the police car had stopped at the South Expressway bridge on Pryor street, when a crowd yanked open the car door and grabbed for the prisoners. A help call was sounded over the police radio and 12 squad cars were rushed into the area.

Police used blackjacks to capture four of the persons who had halted the squad car transporting the prisoners. During the battle, officer Black suffered severe bruises of his face.

LOSES SHIRT

At least one officer lost his shirt in the fight.

Hamilton and the Gazaway woman were booked on charges of drunk and disorderly, cursing, resisting arrest, and assault on officers. Bell, Dixon, Frank Babington and Ralph Babington were jailed on charges of disorderly conduct-interfering with police.

When the scene shifted to the city jail, the prisoners sat together crying over their wounds. After they were booked, police took them to Grady Hospital for medical aid.

CITY HALL

Construction Permits Top Last Year's

By MARION GAINES

City Building Inspector W. R. Wofford Friday said permits for construction valued at $4,962,530 were issued by his office during August, raising to $64,119,753 the total value of building authorized in Atlanta for the first eight months of 1958.

This year's 8-month total exceeds by $22,519,143 the value of construction permits issued during the first eight months of 1957, Wofford said. It also surpasses the entire 1957 total of $59,359,083, he pointed out.

Although Atlanta's building tempo slowed slightly during August, construction permits during the next four months are expected to push the total 1958 building value beyond the record $87,541,610 set in 1954.

Wofford said the 721 permits issued during August boosted the total number of construction permits for 1958 to 5,718, compared with 5,632 issued through August 1957 and 7,791 authorized in all of last year.

The highest-value permit issued during this past month went to Howard Kane & Associates for construction of a $783,000 motel and restaurant at 1640 Peachtree Rd., NW, Wofford said.

Moreland Underpass

Construction of the long-awaited Moreland avenue underpass is scheduled to begin within the next four weeks, City Construction Chief Ray A. Nixon said Friday.

The underpass contractors already have begun preliminary clearance work on the project, Nixon said, but actual construction of the $1,149,571 underpass itself is not expected to start until about Sept. 22.

Slum Projects

Work on slum clearance proposals for the Thomasville and Rockdale Park sections has been stepped up in an effort to have them ready to submit to the federal government Dec. 15 along with plans for three downtown Atlanta projects.

Plans for the downtown projects—Buttermilk Bottom, Washington-Rawson street and University Center—must be submitted by the Dec. 15 deadline in order to qualify for federal aid, Col. Malcolm Jones, city urban renewal director, said Friday.

Baby Paving Bonds

Low bids on nine baby bond paving projects costing more than $71,000 have been approved by the aldermanic board's public works committee.

Sam Finley, Inc., 292 North Ave., NW, was apparent low bidder on six of the projects calling for paving on Abner terrace, NW, $2,041.92; Avondale avenue, SE, $4,600; Kildare avenue, NW, $2,912.86; Shirley place, NW, $6,602.02; Teton avenue, SE, $7,245.55, and Turpin avenue, SE, $5,422.50.

Acme Construction Co. of Lithonia was apparent low bidder on two projects, asking $22,768.32 for paving on Mary George avenue, NW, and $14,916.14 for paving on Abner place, NW.

The apparent low bid of $4,508 for paving on Woodbury street, SW, was submitted by MacDougald-Warren, Inc., 1625 Northside Dr., NW.

Dropped Gun Shoots Policeman and Kin

The bullet struck Patrolman James E. Whitfield, 28, in the left leg near the knee and then hit hs grandmother, Mrs. C. V. Kinnamon, in the left arm near the elbow, Detectives R. P. McGee and J. F. Johnson said.

Detectives said they were told Whitfield was cleaning guns at 693 Lindsay St., NW, where he and Mrs. Kinnamon reside.

Whitfield had finished with the work and was reloading a revolver when he accidentally dropped it, detectives related.

Ex-Decatur Mother of 2 Is Indicted

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn Anderson, attractive young housewife and mother of two, was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges of robbing two building and loan firms here of about $3,000.

Mrs. Anderson, 29, formerly of Decatur, Ga., termed the holdup charges ridiculous when she was arrested by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents about three months ago.

A lone woman bandit robbed one of the firms of $1,660 on Feb. 28 and the other of $1,300 on May 22.

Mrs. Anderson, who is expecting a third child in November, would go on trial in December under normal court procedure. She has been free on bond since her arrest.

Her husband is a young insurance executive, formerly with an Atlanta firm. Mrs. Anderson was office manager for a Buckhead company.

Food Poison Hospitalizes 22 at Alma

ALMA (AP)—Twenty-two junior Red Cross members from Florida were hospitalized with food poisoning Friday in the Bacon County Hospital.

J. M. Smythe, a Red Cross official in Atlanta, said none of the patients is in serious condition and all are expected to be discharged Saturday morning.

The boys and girls had attained a nine-day Junior Red Cross leadership training camp at Green Cove, Tuxedo, N.C., and were returning home on a chartered bus when several of them became ill.

The driver stopped in Alma at 3 a.m. and the hospital admitted all of the youngsters, although not all were sick. The attending physician explained that he had them all hospitalized in case others became ill later. Some did.

Smyth said it has not been determined where the contaminated food was eaten. He said none of the other 103 young persons who attended the North Carolina camp was affecterd.

Texas Exhuming Second Husband Of Mrs. Lyles

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Justice of the Peace T. S. Ward has ordered the body of Joe Neal Gabbert, who died in Dublin, Ga., in December, 1956, exhumed.

Gabbert's widow, Mrs. Anjette D. Lyles, 33, of Macon, Ga., was indicted in June on murder charges in his death and those of her first husband, Ben F. Lyles Jr.; her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ben F. Lyles Sr., and her daughter, Marcia, 9.

Mrs. Lyles has denied she poisoned anyone. She legally changed her name from Gabbert to Lyles after Gabbert, a 26-year-old airlines freight pilot, died in a veterans hospital at Dublin.

Georgia authorities need a complete report before proceeding with the charge against Mrs. Lyles in Gabbert's death. A Georgia pathologist will come to El Paso to conduct an examination.

Red General Asks Tighter Discipline

MOSCOW (UPI) — Col. Gen. F. I. Golikov, political affairs chief of the Soviet Army and Navy, called Friday for tighter discipline and improved Communist party political work within the armed forces. Golikov was appointed ideological chief last January after the ouster of Marshal Georgia Zhukov from the top defense post. He said in an article in Pravda, "There are still some leaders in the armed forces) who attempt to reject criticism or accept it only in words."

STATE NEWS ROUNDUP

3 Georgia Air Bases Are Granted $4 Million

Three Georgia air bases each received approximately four million dollars in a $1,354,000,000 appropriation bill signed Friday by President Eisenhower.

The Georgia total was $16,199,000 in the measure to provide for military construction for the fiscal year started July 1.

Top Georgia items in the appropriation bill signed Friday were $4,419,000 for Hunter Air Force Base, Savannah; $4,362,000 for Robins Base, Macon, and $3,953,000 for Turner, Albany.

Fort Benning, Columbus, received $2,342,000.

Other Georgia figures were Marine Corps Supply Center, Albany, $658,000; Naval Air Station, Glynco, $293,000, and Dobbins Air Force Base, Marietta, $172,000.

School Crisis

Chatham County School Supt. William A. Early Friday announced a special board of education meeting will be held Sunday to consider the Savannah schools' financial plight, which he termed "the worst in their history." Speaking in an unlighted auditorium, Early told a group of teachers the electric lights were not switched on because of an economy move. . . . Police in Warrenton were holding three Walterboro, S.C., youths in connection with the theft of a 1949 Ford station wagon in Walterboro Thursday, the South Carolina Highway Dept. announced Friday. . . . Arthur O. Christensen, 75-year-old Beaufort, S.C., surveyor, plans to water ski the 40 miles from Beaufort to Savannah Saturday, using but one ski.

Killed by Voltage

J. H. Harrell, young Brunswick construction worker, was electrocuted Friday when he touched a "hot" cable. He was working on a Glynn County bridge project. . . . The Valdosta City Council Friday named Homer D. Reed, 31, assistant to the city manager of San Antonio, Tex., as the first city manager.

Vandiver's Pledge

Lt. Gov. Vandiver Friday at Brunswick promised Georgians that he will "reorganize and streamline state functions from the dome to the basement" of the state capitol if they elect him governor.

Steels, Tobaccos, Drugs Pace Rise

NEW YORK, (AP)—A surprise late rally sparked a do-nothing, pre-Labor Day stock market to a moderate gain. Drugs, followed by steels, tobaccos and an assortment of gainers in various sections were the pacemakers in the rise.

Uncertainties about the future were compounded by the suspensful situation near Formosa and further evidence of credit tightening by the Federal Reserve System.

The late rally was ascribed by brokers to the fact that most important selling orders had been taken care of Thursday, when the market declined fairly sharply. It didn't take much in the form of buy orders to boost up prices when offerings were very thin, they said.

The flare-up in speculative interest was highlighted by the fact that eight of the 15 most active stocks were lower-priced issues, selling at or below the price of American Motors, which closed at 16⅜.

As drugs advanced, Marck added 2¼, Pfizer ¾ and Schering ⅝. U.S. Steel paced its group in turnover and rose ⅜. Bethlehem, Republic and Jones & Laughlin added fractions.

U.S. Tobacco was a standout in its group, rising 1⅜. Small gains were posted by Lorillard, American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher on volume of 850,000 shares. Among gainers were General Development, Thiokol, U.S. Foil "B" and Diners' Club.

Corporate bonds declined.

Lint Mixed For Holiday

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 30 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher. Traders evened positions extensively prior to the extended holiday weekend and due to the Quemoy situation. Traders were disappointed over a decline in the mid-August parity which the Department of Agriculture reported at 38.43 cents a pound basis middling ⅞ inch.

New Reprieve Granted Slayer of 3 for Appeal

Otha Adams, 53-year-old killer of three, Friday received a second 30-day reprieve to allow a new attorney to make another appeal to the Pardon and Parole Board.

Gov. Marvin Griffin stayed Adams' sentence only a few hours before the itinerant worker from Morgan, Ga., was scheduled to be electrocuted in the Reidsville State Prison for the death of Harris Hagin Jr., 3.

Adams admitted during his trial at Moultrie last December that he beat to death his sister, Mrs. Herman Hagin, 45, and her two grandchildren, Brenda Dianne, 11 months, and Harris Jr. at the Colquitt County home in November. He was tried only for the boy's death.

The pardon board already has once refused the slayer clemency. On July 9, it unanimously refused to reduce the penalty to life imprisonment.

ADDITIONAL TIME

But since then J. W. (Taxi) Smith, former mayor of Albany, has been engaged as attorney. Griffin said Smith has asked additional time to go again before the board.

Board Chairman Hugh Carney said he had opposed any further reprieve on the grounds that Adams already had a full hearing by the board, had been examined by state-appointed psychiatrists and found sane.

It was to allow the sanity examination that the governor on May 14 ordered the first 30-day stay.

UPHELD SENTENCE

The Supreme Court only a few days earlier had upheld the death sentence and Superior Court Judge George R. Lilley of Quitman set June 27 as a second electrocution date. The original date had been Jan. 3 but it was automatically stayed by appeals.

The third death date was fixed by Judge Lilly on Aug. 4.

In granting the first reprieve, the governor noted that the Supreme Court had sustained the death penalty by a 4-3 split decision. This, he said, was sufficient to warrant further consideration.

Adams was taken to the Reidsville prison on June 2. Between then and his second resentencing he gained 27 pounds. His hair, which formerly contained only a scattering of gray, had turned almost entirely gray.

The prisoner has expressed deep remorse over the deaths of his near relatives. He said he had been drinking and "just went crazy."

Department Stores Of State Pace U.S.

Georgia led the nation in department store sales increases by metropoliton area during 1958's first half, the Commerce department reported here Friday.

Atlanta, Macon and Columbus were among only 13 U.S. metropolitan areas showing increases over the like period last year. Surveyed were the 80 largest areas.

Truck Firms Ask Regional Strike Talks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Trucking employers insisted Friday that bargaining for settlement of the trucking tieup in 11 Western states must be on a regionwide basis.

The Teamsters Union is holding out for separate bargaining with its Sacramento Valley Council for wage parity with Oakland area drivers.

The original impasse when the strike and lockout started Aug. 11 remains unbroken.

A federal mediation effort in San Diego broke off last week without result. No new mediation or meeting has been hinted.

When 2,300 Sacramento council drivers struck 18 days ago, the employers Western Labor Policy Committee countered with a lockout order to member firms throughout the West. They said a strike against one is a strike against all.

The employers renewed their contention that the Sacramento council drivers were bound by a regionwide agreement signed May 27. It granted a $3 a day package increase over three years.

The Sacramento council, asserting its drivers refused to ratify the May 27 agreement, insist on separate negotiations. They ask parity with Oakland area drivers, who won a $4.57 a day package increase in a strike early this month.

West Point Co. Subsidiaries Join Parent Group

Constitution State News Service

WEST POINT—Four former subsidiary companies of West Point Manufacturing Co. have surrendered their charters to become operating units of the parent company effective Tuesday.

The subsidiaries are Dixie Mills, Inc., LaGrange; Columbus Manufacturing Co., Columbus; Equinox Mill and Wellington Mills, Inc., both situated at Anderson, S.C.

General operations at the four facilities will not be affected by the change, said West Point president J. L. Lanier. The move is aimed at "over-all maximum efficiency."

WEATHER FORECAST — NEW YORK — Fair weather is expected Saturday east of the Mississippi except for rain in northern New England and the Appalachians. It should be warmer over the Ohio Valley and central Mississippi Valley, cooler in the northern Rockies. No rain is in sight for Georgia during the weekend.

Iraq Gets Red-Made Syria Arms

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

ROME—The Syrian Army is reported to be shipping large quantities of new surplus Czech-made small arms and ammunition to the revolutionary regime in neighboring Iraq.

The report comes from authoritative sources in close touch with the military in Damascus, which this correspondent recently visited.

According to these sources, the Syrians made the deal with Iraq to sell arms for oil shortly after the pro-Nasser coup brought the present regime to power in Baghdad.

DIRECT ARRANGEMENT

It was a direct bilateral arrangement between the Iraqis and the northern region of President Nasser's United Arab Republic, the sources said.

The Soviet Union, which only recently has resumed relations with Iraq, was said to have had no connection with the exchange.

The Iraqis were said to have been distributing Soviet Block weapons and ammunition to the newly formed People's Militia they have been organizing throughout the country. The weapons are reported to consist mainly of pistols, carbines and machine guns.

The reported deal has numerous facets of political as well as military importance. It demonstrates a natural affinity between Syrians and Iraqis that could develop into an alliance even more viable than the present union of Syria and Egypt.

It gives Nasser a toehold in Iraq, through development of a need for continuing supplies of ammunition and spare parts for the newly acquired weapons.

SUITS DESIGNS

Military observers believe it suits Nasser's designs to try to get all the Arab countries to convert to Soviet arms, if only for standardization.

Iraq is receiving shipments of military supplies from the West after a brief interruption in that program after the revolution. But the Western arms are heavier types that can be used only by the army organization.

The informants said Iraq's new revolutionary leaders had found they were critically short of small arms and ammunition for their army and for the new militia.

Soviet Jetliner Is Feared Lost

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Swedish tourists returning from the Soviet Union said Friday they had heard reports that an Aeroflot TU104 jet transport plane with more than 60 persons aboard had been lost in a Siberian thunderstorm.

These informants emphasized they had no confirmation, official or otherwise, of the reports. Normally, the Soviet government airline does not publish news of accidents unless foreigners are involved.

These sources said the plane, believed to be carrying 64 passengers and crew, disappeared during a heavy thunderstorm about Aug. 18 near Irkutsk in Siberia.

ARMY FIGHTS EPIDEMIC

Sleep Sickness Hits Asia GIs, Kills Flier

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Army engineers sprayed military installations Friday as dreaded sleeping sickness spread to American servicemen and their dependents.

The U. S. Air Force reported an airman died of the disease, now sweeping Korea and Japan, and three others were seriously ill.

The U. S. Army said there was one American Army enlisted man in Kunsan, Korea, stricken with the disease.

The U. S. Navy said they had no cases of sleeping sickness.

U. S. military authorities did not disclose the names of those affected by encephalitis.

In Japan, three children of U.S. Air Force personnel have come down with the disease. One of them, Myra Davidson, 4-year-old daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Bradley Davidson of Concord, N. C., was reported in serious condition in a U. S. Navy hospital in Yokosuka.

Other children were identified as a 10-year-old boy and a 6-year-old girl but their names were not disclosed.

The U. S. Armed Forces Radio joined encephalitis fighters in combating sleeping sickness by continuously warning agaist exposure to mosquitoes, carriers of the dreaded disease.

Korea health authorities said there were 2,809 cases of encephalitis among Koreans, causing 589 deaths. Japanese authorities said there were 541 cases and 161 deaths in Japan.
